BARES REPORT ON MANPOWER MUDDLE IN U.S.

Sanders Claims Co-ordination Lacking in Key Places Within Government.

CITES M'NUTT CLAIM

Confusion Over Draft-Labor Bill Pointed Out By Special Prober.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—A special secret report of the military affairs committee today blamed "lack of co-ordination" in key places for the muddled manpower situation and cited as an example war manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt's claim that he has the right to determine the size of the armed forces.

The report was presented by Col. Lewis Sanders of the selective service bureau who was assigned to the committee to make a comprehensive survey of manpower problems. He read it, in person at executive sessions yesterday and Tuesday.

Sanders noted that McNutt, the target of bitter criticism because of his handling of the situation, claims power under an executive order of April 18, 1942, to determine the size of the armed forces.

"He has testified that he personally approves all the calls of the armed forces for manpower," he said. "There is no evidence in the record, and I have no knowledge of his having curtailed any requisition of the armed forces. Nevertheless, there is a lack of co-ordination under which an administrator who has no responsibility for the successful use of the armed forces claims authority to limit their size."

Referring to the general manpower situation, he said: "The most outstanding deficiency in procedure . . . is the lack of co-ordination of plans at the top Co-operation exists, and in very full measure, and with far greater degree than the public press would indicate to the public. Real co-ordination is almost embryonic!"

Sanders illustrated the "confusion" by citing the attitude of McNutt, War Production Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey toward a "draft-labor" act.

McNutt, he said, told the military affairs committee last Oct. 21 that voluntary methods had failed to provide sufficient workers, but took the position on Feb. 5, 1943, that draft-labor legislation was not needed. He reiterated his February position this week.

Nelson, he said, told the committee last Nov. 6 that it would be necessary to conscript labor

COLD FADES

Weatherman Predicts Much Warmer Temperatures.

Spring, or some semblance of it, began moving back into Richland county today as the beaming sun moved the mercury from a last night's low of two above zero to a 11 a. m. reading of 16 above.

Better yet the wetherman indicated the rise in temperature would continue with a much warmer night. In some northern sections, he said, there would be light snow and increasing winds.

Unofficial readings in the Mansfield area last night far outdid the more authoritative figures of the weatherman. Various neighborhood thermometers were reported to have varied from three below to zero, with residents inclined to place credence in them after they had braved the sharp winds.

FDR SMILES AT 4TH TERM TALK

Walker Reports President Brushes Off '44 Comment on 10th Anniversary.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt attained his tenth anniversary in the White House today amid scattered fourth term talk in Democratic ranks but apparently without the slightest encouragement from him.

"He's too busy with the war to think about 1944," said one party leader, "and besides many things can happen between now and nominating convention time."

As on previous anniversaries of his first inauguration in 1933, the chief executive arranged to observe the day at special religious services to which high government officials and relatives were invited.

The services are being held in the East room of the White House, instead of at nearby St. John's Episcopal church as in past years, because of the president's recent illness.

Mention of a fourth term was made in what was described as a very casual manner at a White House conference yesterday Chairman Frank C Walker of the Democratic National committee took 12 other officers and committee members to see the chief executive. Walker said afterward in response to questioning that "two or three" members told the president he "should" or would "have to be" a candidate next year if the war still was on.

"But they got no response from the president," he added. "I don't think he heard it as he was doing most of the talking. If he did he smiled it off. It was said rather lightly and there was no discussion."

The new national chairman and postmaster general said the president talked almost entirely about the prosecution of the war and general conditions, and appeared optimistic about developments in the war so far.

Win Campaign to Lift Water Level At Pleasant Hill

The water level of Pleasant Hill reservoir is being restored and there may be good fishing and boating there next summer, members of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association were told last night at their monthly session at North Lake park pavilion.

Success for the association's campaign to restore the lake was reported by members of the organization's conservation committee who visited the lake a few days ago.

The water level has already been raised to 32 feet and the war department has agreed to increase it four feet monthly until it is back to normal, said A. A. Miller, chairman of the conservation committee. He said the water now covers the primary fish spawning beds in the lake.

Another member of the committee, Ed Felton of Mansfield, said a few cellars in the lake area had a little water in them, but

Ready to Ration Meat; O. S. R. Has Worries

OPA Set to Start Program by April 1.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Office of Price Administration has completed plans for rationing most major food items by April 1, it was learned today.

The only important foods which will remain unrationed if the planned crackdown goes into effect will be bread, potatoes, fresh vegetables, eggs and probably milk.

Point rationing of meat, bacon, canned meat and canned fish is scheduled definitely to begin on or around April 1. Sugar, coffee and all canned or processed vegetables, juices fruits and soups already are rationed.

OPA has made all necessary preparations for adding cheese, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils to the rationed list as soon as it receives a go-ahead from the agriculture department.

According to present plans rationing of meat, bacon, canned meat, canned fish, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils will be carried out as a single program on the point system on the red sheets of war ration book No. 2. OPA rationing experts, it was learned, have drawn up a second elaborate

1,995 Inmates Are Also on Rations.

Mrs. Average Mansfield Housewife who must stretch 48 food ration stamps over one month for each member of her family has no worries at all compared to the problem of Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Mansfield reformatory, and State Welfare Director Charles Sherwood.

Glattke is trying to figure out ways to feed the 1,995 inmates of the reformatory under the ration program, while Sherwood has the problem of spreading 2,160,000 ration points over an estimated 3,720,000 meals for the 37,000 inmates and 3,000 employes of Ohio's 22 institutions.

Sherwood and Glattke want to see the big state institutions receive the same consideration from the OPA for the goods they can themselves as is shown the average housewife for her home-packed fruits and vegetables. Dispatches from Columbus today said the state welfare department will fight

CRACK DOWN ON BLACK MARKET

Police Seize 6,000 Pounds of Uninspected Meat.

NEW YORK—(INS)—In a crackdown on black market activities authorities today seized 6,000 pounds of uninspected meat and another 100 pounds said to be contaminated.

The seizures were made as about 255 police and health inspectors stopped all trucks bringing meat into New York and visited scores of wholesale establishments and slaughterhouses in the city's five boroughs.

The drastic action came as federal authorities sought to wipe out black markets which, they estimated, are taking 360,000,000 pounds of meat annually.

'NEAR SLACKERS'

Absentees Cost U. S. 100 Ships a Year, Land Declares.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Asserting that "the illegitimate absentee is first cousin to the slacker," Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission told the house naval affairs committee today that absenteeism in shipyards is costing the country 100 Liberty ships a year.

Land said shipyard absenteeism in December, 1942, caused a time loss of 14 to 18 per cent. He added that a maritime commission analysis of 2,389,000 man-hours lost because of absenteeism in one week of January, indicated that more than half of the total was "illegitimate."

Land urged congress to take "preventive action." He said that mere consideration of the problem by the committee was having a salutary effect already.

U. S. Cuts Shipment of Food To Recalcitrant Martinique

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Authoritative sources in Washington today disclosed that the United States government has curtailed the shipment of food and other supplies to Martinique.

Officially, the shipments have been curtailed because of the shortage of foodstuffs in this country and the heavy demands of the fighting forces and the Allies for American supplies.

Unofficially, the move has been prompted by the stubborn attitude of Admiral Georges Robert, high commissioner of the French West Indies.

The French admiral has failed to show any willingness to help in the liberation of France. He has refused to join either the Fighting French movement of Gen. Charles De Gaulle or the French North African forces of Gen. Henri Giraud.

He also has refused to make available to the United Nations a number of French merchant ships, including several tankers, which have been lying idle in

WAIT REPORTS ON WAR FUND

Red Cross Headquarters Says Returns Meager; Shelby Adds to Quota.

Richland county's Red Cross war fund campaign was rolling along today but the speed of it could not be determined from the meager reports available.

Only Shelby's returns were gratifying with none of the other outlying districts and only a small part of the city's districts reporting. Raymond Pugh, Shelby chairman, said his 80 workers yesterday annexed another approximate $1,000 amount to add to their pledged total of more than $5,000.

With only $370 reported of the many times that amount collected in Mansfield's third day of the drive, L. W. Birch, county chairman, and city executives today appealed to workmen to turn in complete figures of their progress. The banked total in Mansfield to date is $1,820.

Five more 100 per cent firms were added to Mansfield's honor roll. They were: Dr. W. D. Abrams office, Hartman Suspender company, Y. M. C. A., Penn Auto store and the Idle Hour poolroom.

With plant pay days and various organization meetings scheduled for later in the week, the Mansfield campaign was expected to gain substantially within the next few days. The great share of the local collection represents individual donations, many of which have been mailed in without solicitation, workers said.

The Shelby chairman likewise reported that their statistics did not include many of that city's businesses, which are expected to contribute in the coming week. Shelby workers expect, however, to complete the major part of their canvass, including every house of the residential sections, by Saturday of this week.

Pedestrian Finds Transient Dead In Store Entrance

Sheriff's deputies and Shelby police were attempting today to locate relatives of Frederick E. Reynolds, 60, a transient, who was found dead at 7:45 a. m. today at the entrance to the Liberty Shoe store, 65 North Main street.

Reynolds had received treatment for a stomach ailment yesterday at the city jail, and Acting Coroner Blake Kohler said he probably suffered an attack while walking along the sidewalk before dawn today. He had been dead more than an hour when a passerby reported the death to police.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said Reynolds' former wife and a daughter and son were believed living in Shelby. Police there were asked to locate them.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home pending completion of funeral arrangements.

STATE ACTS ON LIQUOR, MOVE FAILS TO HELP

Fisher Orders Stores to Stay Open Whether They Have Supply or Not.

SEEN AS HINDRANCE

Directive Made to Eliminate 'Confusion' But Stores Here Tried It and Failed.

After a long period during which it did exactly nothing to ease the situation created by the shortage of liquor, the state liquor department came up today with what it probably hoped would be a solution.

It ordered all state stores to stay open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. (Eastern War Time) Monday through Friday, and from 1 to 10 p. m. on Saturday.

It also ordered the stores to divide their week's stocks into seven equal parts, and to sell only that amount each day, with a two-day supply allocated to Saturday.

What Don A. Fisher, state liquor director, apparently didn't know was that his first order—pertaining to hours of operation—would only increase confusion, rather than decrease it, and that so far as Mansfield is concerned, the daily-ration system had been in effect for some time.

His order on hours of operation—whether there is liquor on the shelves or not—will prevent stores from closing when their daily quota has been sold.

It won't prevent would-be customers from pointing out that the store is open and that there ought to be liquor available—to which the store employes won't have much of an answer.

Frank C Poling, manager of the South Park street store here, declared that he had already been following a policy of dividing his available supply into seven equal parts and selling just one each day (two on Saturday).

But Poling had been following a system of his own on store hours—opening and closing without announcement, in order to keep liquor out of the hands of bootleggers and to give the legitimate consumer as much of a "break" as possible. Between those periods, he locked the doors.

"When customers found the door locked, they would know that there wasn't any whisky," Poling said. "When we stayed opened even though we had nothing to sell, six or eight or more customers would gather and start discussing the situation. They would get angry and in most cases they would leave

QUITS TO HELP

War Worker Leaves Job To Settle Union Dispute.

ALAMEDA, Cal.—(INS)—Full shifts were operating today at the General Engineering and Drydock company in Alameda, when 260 machinists returned to work, after Charles Young, central figure in the dispute announced that he would quit rather than be responsible for delays in navy production.

Production at the big Alameda plant had been delayed by a partial interruption of schedules Monday and a complete three-shift work stoppage Tuesday.

Young was expelled from the union for refusing to demand double pay for overtime on a navy rush job during the Christmas season but earlier refused to quit his job.

AUSTIN, Tex. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today made public an agreement with Texas labor leaders signed March 2 barring all strikes, slow-downs, lockouts or work stoppages of any nature in Texas for the duration of the war.

So far as is known here, this is the first such agreement made between a state and workers.

Foe Loses 22 Ships, 15,000 Men In Fight

Allied Planes Also Wipe Out Entire Armada of 62 Planes In Greatest Air Triumph of Pacific War; Enemy Has 'No Survivors.'

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Japan's military plans were completely disrupted today by the greatest American air victory in the Pacific which smashed into oblivion a Nipponese fleet of 22 warships and transports.

Annihilated through the destruction of the vessels were 15,000 Nipponese troops and an enemy air armada of 62 planes was destroyed.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, American military genius chosen by the Australian people as their guardian against Japanese invasion, announced in a triumphant communique that the battle of the Bismarck sea had been decided "with such completeness as to assume proportions of a major disaster to the enemy."

He revealed that the most powerful Japanese convoy ever hurled against New Guinea had been "practically destroyed" by the devastating blows of American airmen which either sunk or left in sinking conditions every one of the 22 Jap vessels.

The convoy consisted of 10 warships, cruisers or heavy destroyers, and 12 transports heavily laden with troops.

Slashing their way through adverse weather conditions and anti-aircraft fire which made a flaming hell of the skies over the Bismarck sea and the Huon gulf, the Yankee airmen in three days of raging battle reduced the entire enemy flotilla of 90,000 tons to nothing.

None of the conservatively estimated 15,000 Jap troops, carrying full battle equipment, was believed to have survived.

"Merciful providence has guarded us in this great victory," Gen. MacArthur declared in announcing the outcome of the engagement. "We have achieved a victory of such completeness as to assume the proportions of a major disaster to the enemy," his communique said.

The 15,000 Jap troops, he continued have been drowned or killed "almost to a man."

He concluded his communique by saying:

"Our decisive success cannot fail to have most important results on the enemy's strategic and tactical plans. His campaign for the time being at least is completely dislocated."

It is believed the first time in the history of modern warfare that virtually 100 per cent of a great convoy, boasting tremendous naval support and having 24-hour protection by land-based fighter planes, has been destroyed by land-based bombers alone. The American craft operated without any naval support.

The epochal American victory which equals the defeats handed the Japs in the battle of the Coral sea and at Midway has unquestionably removed, for the present at least, the growing Japanese pressure which Gen. MacArthur asserted on Monday was slowly and steadily encircling Australia.

An official spokesman at headquarters said that Gen. MacArthur's estimate that 15,000 Jap lives were lost was "very conservative."

The latest Allied air reconnaissance has indicated that not a single survivor has been seen out of the entire convoy. There are no signs of life. No rafts or small boats were observed anywhere in the battle area.

First sighted Monday afternoon west of New Britain island, the convoy was attacked without respite and badly scattered on Tuesday. The death blows were dealt

EIGHTH DAY: RAF Planes Hit Hamburg In Continuing Attack

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—United States Flying Fortresses attacked the dock area of Rotterdam, the Netherlands, and switching yards at Hamm, Germany, in daylight today, it was announced.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Royal Air Force made a heavy attack on Hamburg last night in the eighth successive night attack on Germany or German occupied areas in Europe, it was announced officially today in the wake of two German raids on London.

Other targets in western Germany also were hit by the strong RAF force and ten of the bombers failed to return, it was announced.

The attack on Hamburg, heavily battered since the beginning of the war, followed a large scale assault Monday night on Berlin. Hamburg has been visited by RAF bombers nearly 100 times and was heavily attacked Feb. 4 when 16 of the British planes failed to return.

Danish radio stations suddenly broke off transmission shortly after noon today, indicating the round-the-clock Allied assault on German strongholds was being carried into another day.

Between 30 and 40 German bombers crossed the British coast for the first and strongest attack on London and other areas, but only part of this force reached London, an air ministry communique said. The second raid was made by a smaller force and few of those planes reached the city, it was announced.

There were a number of casualties, including fatalities, but "no-

SETBACK: Allies Forced to Make Short Tunisian Retreat

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Renewed Axis attacks in northern Tunisia forced a four-mile withdrawal of the Allied line in the Sedjenane sector while Allied patrols following Marshal Rommel's retreat in the central sector re-entered Sidi Bouzid, before strategic Faid Pass, without opposition, field dispatches said today.

Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's forces gained ground in the Sedjenane area only at the expense of very heavy casualties and "attacks in other areas were all successfully repulsed," said a communique from Allied headquarters.

At the same time it was announced light armored forces of the British Eighth army had engaged and repulsed enemy infantry striking east of Mareth, an anchor of the fortified line in southern Tunisia.

"The enemy has reinforced his infantry with tanks in this area," the communique added.

"On the night of March 2-3," it

NEW YORK CITY PREPARED FOR AXIS RAIDERS

Once 'Gay White Day' Dimmed Out; Powerful Searchlights Swing Across Sky.

By JOHN NAGEL
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Under a dimmed-out sky, New York today is prepared for war.

Broadway the city's once "Gay White Way," now is but a faint shadow of its pre-war self. Splendor and brilliance have been sacrificed for the lives of seamen and the cargoes of ships destined for world-wide battlefronts.

Outwardly placid, New York nevertheless is ready for come what may. The majority of homes have their own equipment to fight blazes which might be caused by an enemy raider dropping incendiary bombs. In addition there are thousands of fully trained air raid wardens and auxiliary firemen ready to go into action at a moment's notice.

At night giant searchlights range the sky identifying each passing plane in cross-crossing rays of light. The searchlights are turned off only after the identity of the plane has been definitely established.

The city's air raid sirens are manned 24 hours a day by auxiliary firemen. Each tour of duty lasts four hours. These men have received extensive training and are well versed in the handling of fire equipment.

There also are numerous air raid warden posts scattered throughout the city. The wardens have become a familiar sight with their white armbands and white helmets strung over their shoulders as they patrol the streets at all hours.

A surprise practice alert recently sounded during the early afternoon hours. Within a comparatively short time they appeared and had the situation well in hand. All traffic was stopped and civilians herded into doorways. The alert was pronounced a definite success.

All lights visible from out of doors which cannot be extinguished, completely obscured or reduced within five minutes of a blackout alarm must be permanently extinguished.

All lights on trains streetcars, buses, ferries and subways running above ground must be so shielded that the light escaping shall not exceed two-foot candles at any point three feet from the outside.

Lights in shop, office and home windows must also be kept down to the two-foot candles rule.

Vehicular headlights must have the upper part of the lens obscured by some opaque material, and high beam headlights are not permitted. When driving within sight of the sea no more than two driving lamps, each of 250 candlepower or less, may be used.

Violations of these regulations may be punished by fines up to $5,000, imprisonment for one year, or both. The dimout time is from one-half hour before sunrise between Oct. 1 and April 30, and from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise between May 1 and Sept. 30.

Steps also are being taken to protect civilians against possible enemy gas attacks. Several thousand gas masks recently were distributed among the protective forces of the city. They represented the first few truckloads of a total shipment of 168,000 gas masks alloted to New York by the Office of Civilian Defense. The masks differ slightly from the regular army issue.

When, and if, Axis raiders come, they will find the city prepared to give them a hot reception.

Continues at Ohio.

James Hilton's "Random Harvest," starring Ronald Colman and Greer Garson, continues today at the Ohio. Colman, an amnesia victim from shock in world war battles, walks away from a mental hospital. He meets Greer and the two fall in love and marry. They live happily together for three years. Colman is struck by a car, and when he regains consciousness his life with Greer is completely blacked out. This sets the stage for a dramatic and heart touching climax.

Bambi.

Walt Disney's technicolor production, "Bambi," is the feature attraction at the Madison. It is the story of high romance and thrilling adventure told through the medium of animals living in a forest. Here's what a few of the top movie critics say about the film: Kate Cameron, New York Daily News—"We feel like shouting its praises from the top of Radio City." Rose Pelswick, New York Journal-American—"Utterly enchanting." Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune—"Bambi belongs on the top shelf of all notable motion pictures." Alton Cook, New York World-Telegram—"Bambi steps way ahead of all its predecessors on the Walt Disney list." Tim Holt, star of "Hitler's Children," plays top role in the second hit, "Pirates of the Prairie."

Sets Dates for Seeding Hay on Farms This Year

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Good clover and alfalfa seedings, necessary to protect future soil productivity, can best be obtained by sowing after March 1, Dr. C. J. Willard of Ohio State university advises Ohio farmers.

Farmers in the southern part of the state can safely sow these legumes any time during March, while farmers in northern Ohio will have their greatest success with seed sown during the latter part of the month and up to April 7. The best stands of legumes in the Columbus area have been obtained from seed sown between March 14 and April 1, Dr. Willard says.

Pasturing or clipping wheat in which the seed is sown increases the farmer's chances of getting a good seeding, and more than offsets any loss of wheat, Dr. Willard asserts, adding that since seed is scarce and high priced, "every effort should be made to give the seed sown a fair chance to produce good meadows and pastures."

Sport Podge

Final week-end of bowling in the Northern Ohio women's handicap tournament at Tiffin just about knocked Mansfield keglerettes completely out of the money—almost, but not quite.

Arlene Peters won the singles championship with 638, and high game of the tournament, without handicap, of 254, and Kate Cheney took eighth money in singles with 610.

That's all, Brother. Mansfielders dropped right off the board in doubles and team event, and in all-events.

Pete's singles championship was seriously threatened on the last day of the tournament by Louva Smith of Tiffin who hit 637, just one pin off the pace, and by a Port Clinton grandmother, 62-year-old Gusta Christensen, who wound up with a 636, two pins away.

A miss in the tenth in her last game robbed Grandma Gusta of the title. But a little thing like that didn't stop Grandma. She teamed up with her granddaughter and took second place in doubles.

Grandma took it on the chin. But she should care, she got her pins.

A few Mansfielders, Art Hilborn, Pickles Hipp and Al Vogel, to name names, were just a bit discombobulated when team entries for the coming Inter-City bowling tournament failed to set a new record.

There were indications for a time that the 316 mark set last year at Lorain would be passed here, but the entries stopped at 280.

Which was plenty good enough, since the Inter-City directors feared they wouldn't even reach 150.

But the tournament which opens March 13 for a stand of seven week-ends, will set three new records in total prize money, and singles and doubles purses.

Class A division of the tournament will split $2,124 among 66 teams, while Booster teams will have $812 for 60 teams.

There will be $2,199 for the first 128 doubles, and $2,178 for the first 200 singles.

Additional special prizes will bring the total purse to $7,633 compared to the $7,426 distributed at Lorain a year ago.

Bowlers this year want action when they travel. That accounts for the fact that nearly all the Booster teams went all the way with singles and doubles entries, something very unusual in the Inter-City.

Poor Murph Hanna. My heart bleeds for him. Yes it does.

Murph (he's my bowling team) Hanna has been wagering cigarets with me now these two long seasons, wagering he'd hit 600 in the City "A" league.

He had a good horse, but he got off it too soon. He got his 603 Sunday night, with no bet up, and instead of collecting, he had to pay off a hangover from a couple weeks before. Thanks for the cigarets, Murph, my friend.

Hershey Captures Hockey Loop Title

(By Associated Press)

The American Hockey league pennant is flying from a Hershey mast head today. Although idle the Bears automatically clinched the flag last night when the Pittsburgh Hornets mathematically eliminated the Buffalo Bisons, by holding the Bisons to a 3-3 tie.

This left the Bisons with 59 points to Hershey's 72 and since Buffalo has only six more games left to play, the title tussle ended today. It was the Bears' first pennant since they have been in the league.

In the only other contest of the evening, the Washington Lions nosed out the Cleveland Barons, 5-4.

DESAUTELS HURT

WEBSTER, Mass. — (AP)— Gene Desautels, catcher for the Cleveland Indians, today nursed slight injuries suffered when his automobile and another collider yesterday as he was returning from a mill in Douglas. The catcher's left elbow was injured and he was bruised about the body.

NEW YORK — (AP)— Pvt. Johnny Greco of the Canadian army and Cleo Shans, Los Angeles Negro lightweight, were signed today for a return 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden March 26.

Rockets Beat Long Islanders

Turn In Hoop Victory Without Injured Star.

By Associated Press)

THE University of Toledo Rockets had the Ohio basketball championship practically in the bag today and were projecting themselves into the national title picture as well.

The All-Freshman Rockets, carrying the prestige of Buckeye collegiate basketball on their shoulders, invaded New York's Madison Square Garden last night and whipped a crack Long Island university squad 43 to 41 for their 19th triumph in 21 starts this season.

And that record just about clinched the Ohio title for the Rockets who have but one more regularly-scheduled game to play at LaSalle (Philadelphia) Saturday night. A loss at LaSalle would leave the Toledoans with a percentage rating of .8636 for the season, a trifle behind Capital university's .8666 rating, but Cap played only 15 games this season and the slight difference in the figures—should Toledo drop the finale—would hardly have any effect on the Rockets' title claims. A victory over LaSalle, on the other hand, would put the Toledoans way out front.

Last night's game, part of a doubleheader in which St. Johns of Brooklyn defeated New York university 57 to 42, also kept alive the Rockets' hope for a bid to the National Invitational tournament.

The Toledoans played without their scoring ace, Davage Minor, who was out with a broken hand, and were without their six-foot, six-inch center, Jim Glass, the last 19 minutes. Glass was ejected from the game for too many personal fouls.

Guard Bob Bolyard, whose long, set shots early in the game helped loosen up the islanders' zone defense, paced the Toledo scoring with 17 points. Long Island's diminutive guard, Elmore Collins, was high for the evening, however, with 21 counters.

In the only game on Ohio hardwoods last night, the university of Cincinnati wound up its season with a 51-37 triumph over neighboring Xavier. Cincinnati finished with a record of 10 wins and nine losses, Xavier with 5 victories against 10 defeats.

Weigand Urges Sport Program

Declares Competition Should Be Encouraged.

COLUMBUS— (AP)— Competitive sports tend to develop qualities necessary for maximum efficiency in modern warfare and "should be maintained and encouraged at all times," Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme court asserted today.

"We are engaged in the most devastating conflict in recorded history," he said in an address prepared for delivery at a Central Ohio Sportsmen's meeting. "The war must be won. In developing the necessary maximum efficiency in the horrible process of killing and destruction that we politely designate as modern warfare, the qualities of courage, initiative, resourcefulness, leadership, quick thinking, competitive spirit and physical fitness are indespensable for success.

"Fortunately these are qualities that likewise are needed in the saner pursuits of peacetime. Hence any program—such as competitive sports—tending to develop these qualities of character should be maintained and encouraged at all times."

Boys not yet in the armed forces should be given an opportunity to participate in competitive sports even if crowds dwindle because of rationing, Judge Weygandt declared.

"In the confusion of this critical period," he added, "let us think clearly and not lightly cast aside . . . those that have made an . . . contribution to the . . . of this nation."

Knocks Frills t of Ohio's 155 City Hospitals

UMBUS—(INS)—The war locked all the unnecessary out of the 155 general hos- in Ohio and they are now properly operated and no as hotels, according to George Fishback, secretary of the Ohio State Hospital association.

With the armed forces taking approximately 25 per cent of Ohio's physicians and 33⅓ per cent of the nurses, remaining doctors and other hospital employes therefore are placed under added strain to care for the sick in the 20,000 hospital beds in the state, Fishback said.

The shortage of various kinds of foods has resulted in hospital menus being reduced "in width but not in length," according to Fishback. Patients can no longer choose between several dishes, but take what the hospitals can give.

"Half the hospitals in the state already are observing meatless days," he said, "but their dieticians have been able to work out meals that provide the proper nourishment."

"The days of the resident physician are over and orderlies have vanished from the scene," said Fishback in conclusion, adding that housekeeping help is the greatest problem because so many have been attracted to higher paying jobs in defense factories.

DENIED 'LAST' JOYRIDE

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (U.P.)—Two youths, 18 and 19, applied for supplementary C gas books here on grounds of urgent necessity. OPA investigation revealed they wanted to have one last four-wheeled fling before being drafted into the army. The OPA saved the gasoline for the latter.

ME HEALTH EFENSE
SENTIAL TO ATIONAL EFENSE

WASHBASINS often harbor dangerous germs which may be transmitted from one member of the family to another. Regular disinfection of washbasins and other bathroom "danger zones" with Clorox reduces germ hazards. Clorox is extra-efficient in germicidal action ... it effectively deodorizes, removes stains, too. For health-protective cleanliness in bathroom, kitchen, laundry ... simply follow directions on the label.

CONVOYS PLY TO HAWAII WITHOUT TROUBLE SO FAR

Crew Always on Alert For Trouble, However; Ships Difficult to Spot.

By GEORGE E. JONES

HONOLULU — (U.P.) — American convoys from the mainland are reaching Hawaii without interference, thus far, from the enemy.

Vessels of all descriptions, constantly under the watchful scrutiny of the United States navy, have plied the routes from the mainland with out loss. That they have done so is a tribute to officers and men of the transport service, the merchant marine and the navy.

It is also testimony to the effectiveness of precautionary measures designed to reduce the possibility of underseas attack to an absolute minimum.

I arrived aboard a transport and can say that the navy is fully prepared to meet the possible appearance of any unit of the Imperial Japanese navy with dispatch and telling effect. It was comforting to watch gun crews work out on moving targets--particularly when they scored hits.

Our vessel that ploughed a zigzag course tthrough the blue Pacific was painted drab gray and showed few traces of its former career as a passenger liner. Some of its peacetime ornaments had been removed and others placed under cover.

Its officers and crews were prepared for trouble from the moment we left the mainland.

"Sure," said one junior officer. "I know we've gotten by pretty well on this route since Pearl Harbor. But there's always a first time."

This philosophy was impressed upon all passengers, in uniform as well as out. Aboard our ship were not only troops but a scattering of civilian passengers and three war correspondents. We were placed strictly under naval regulations for the entire voyage.

This meant, among other things, that life jackets were worn or kept close by at all times. There were daily lifeboat drills and blackout regulations.

It is a standing rule of a convoy that any man overboard must shift for himself; the vessel cannot stop to pick up a lost passenger. There was no horseplay near the railings.

Despite restrictions imposed by wartime conditions, I can report that the American soldier is well equipped to improvise his entertainment. There were no radios allowed aboard the ship, but community singing and dancing—with the aid of an orchestra recruited from the ship's crew—developed quickly in the social hall.

But poker and other games of chance still form the major recreation for the average American soldier. Card games were constantly in progress, above and below decks, in the social hall and wherever space could be found.

Army troops are well fed in transit. Meals came three times a day and some of the soldiers supplemented them with frequent purchases of candy between meals. The galley was lined with thousands of cases of fresh vegetables and meats, and no esesntial item of civilian fare was missing.

Major casualty of the trip, in so far as I could observe, occurred during the commanding officer's daily medicine-ball work-out. when an over-enthusiastic colleague threw the ball too hard.

Before the horrified eyes of the colonel and a handful of junior officers, the medicine ball sailed over the rail and into the blue Pacific.

There was no stopping for that one.

WAR HITS HENS

Good Poultry Feed Harder To Obtain Now.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio poultrymen today are concerned about their hens' daily diet. Protein in sufficient quantities to maintain peak egg production is not available in the corn, oats and wheat alone which hens eat, according to C. M. Ferguson, poultry husbandry specialist at Ohio State university, and the usual additional sources are not now available.

In ordinary times, Ferguson says, the protein shortage is corrected by adding meat scraps, dried milk, alfalfa meat, or other carriers of protein to the ration. Most of these foods now, however, either are very high in price or cannot be purchased at all. Soybean meal upon which many poultrymen have long relied also has become increasingly difficult to obtain.

Recommended poultry rations to make up the protein deficiency have been prepared by poultry specialists at Ohio State university. Upon request these will be made available to poultrymen by county agricultural agents.

Since 1907 the French have spent $65,000,000 improving the harbor of Casablanca.

SAFER IN WAR

NEW YORK - (AP) - So you think life on the battlefronts is dangerous? Figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company show that more persons have died of bullet wounds accidentally inflicted in the peace years since 1918 than died in AEF action.

The peace-time shooting toll has reached 70,000. There were 50,000 AEF deaths resulting from front-line action.

CLUB'S OPEN TO ALL ALLIED MEN

LONDONDERRY, Ireland —(AP)—The British government has opened in this headquarters of the United States navy in Britain a $100,000 clubhouse for officers.

At the request of naval and marine officers it was thrown open to officers of all the United Nations. Captain Van Leer Kirman, commandant of the naval base, said "The British drink tea and we drink coffee but we are all the same breed of dogs."

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our wife and mother, Mrs. Sylvia M. Coffman. To Rev. Corwin and Rev. Swoyer for their kind and consoling words. To the Wappner Funeral Home for their very efficient services. To all those who sent flowers and to any others who assisted in any way.
Glenn E. Coffman,
Mrs. Bernard Mahoney,
Miss Frances Coffman, (C-k)

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of our dear son and brother Roland E. Stahl, who passed away one year ago today, March 4th, 1942.
As we think of you dear Roland,
Our hearts are sad with pain,
Oh this world would be a heaven,
If we could see your face again.
So often our thoughts do wander
To a grave so far away,
Where they bid you Roland darling
Just one year ago today."
Sadly missed by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. F. C. Stahl, and his sisters Ruth and Romilda. (A-k)

ADD FRACTIONS TO WIDE GAINS ON STOCK LIST

Large Blocks of Leaders Are Transferred on Active Opening Trade.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks added fractionally to the previous session's broad gains in today's early dealings.

Transfers of a fair number of leaders in large blocks provided an active opening. In the higher group at the start were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union, United Aircraft and Coca Cola.

In Wall Street boardrooms corporate dividend prospects were seen as altered somewhat by the supreme court's recent decision holding non-taxable common stock dividends distributed by Standard Oil company, (N.-J) in 1939. Some sources suggested that requirements for increased cash for expansion, inventories and taxes might, in view of the court's ruling, lead numerous companies to pay dividends in stock rather than cash.

LIQUOR MOVE FAILS TO HELP

Fisher Orders Stores to Stay Open Whether They Have Supply or Not.

even more confused than when they came in.

"It is our belief that a customer prefers to know quickly whether he's going to be able to buy any liquor. He gets the answer quickly by just trying the door."

Fisher's new directives had not been received by Mansfield store managers, but were outlined today in statements he made to the Associated Press in Columbus.

Poling said it was likely that he may receive copies of the order either this afternoon or tomorrow.

Besides his system of staggered sales during the day announced last week as a means of keeping liquor out of illegitimate or possible "bootleg" channels, Poling today said that persons in need of liquor for medicinal purposes will be able to purchase it at the store providing they present a written statement from a physician and providing there is whisky in the store to fill the order.

DEMANDS RATION BOOK'S RETURN

Husband Asks Writ After Wife Runs Away With It.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Charging that she ran away from his home, Edward T. Griffith today sought a writ of habeas corpus ordering the appearance in supreme court of his wife, his six-year-old daughter and his ration book.

Worried over his predicament which leaves him without sugar, coffee, shoes, canned foods and soon — meat, Griffith stressed in his petition that the ration book "is very essential to me at this time."

His wife is comely Alice Patricia Griffith, one of the 16 beauties who shared in the estate of the late Jefferson W. Seligman, international banker.

HERE ARE USUAL QUERIES ABOUT POINT RATIONS

Housewives Need Specific Data on System, OPA Gives It Out.

By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Answers to some of the commonest questions which housewives have raised since the start of point-rationing of canned dried and frozen fruits and vegetables were given by the Office of Price Administration today as follows

Q I buy all my food from the same grocer and order all my food by phone May I leave my ration books at the store and authorize the dealer to remove stamps for the food I order?

A Yes you may authorize your dealer to act as your agent in deducting stamps from your ration book

Q What can I do if I get a swelled can of food from my grocer?

A Return it and ask him to give you a perfect can to replace it

Q Suppose I accidentally break a bottle of food for which I have just surrendered a ration stamp Should my dealer replace it?

A No The loss for broken containers is yours if you are responsible for the breakage

Q. If I have a surplus of canned corn and canned tomatoes may I exchange these for foods I need but do not have?

A. Yes. you may exchange canned goods of equal point value with your grocer if he is willing, or with neighbors and friends

Q If I have no need to buy rationed foods during the first month of rationing may I save my stamps to use when I need them?

A No Point stamps become invalid at the end of each ration period just like stamps for sugar and coffee

Q. Are the smallest size of cans of food rationed?

A. Yes even the smallest size cans of foods are rationed if they contain foods included in the rationing program

Q Is it more economical for me to buy dry or canned beans?

A If you can use either dry beans are more economical from standpoint of ration points since they increase in bulk when they are soaked for use

Q What should be done with the point ration book of men going into service?

A Ration books of men going into service—providing they eat at an army mess—should be returned to local war price and ration boards.

Q If ration books of men eating at an army mess are turned back to the war price and ration boards how can families get food for them when they are home on leave?

A If they are home for a week or more local boards will issue them ration certificates for the length of their leave if they present their furlough papers

Q Do men in the merchant marine turn in their ration books to their local boards when they ship out on a trip?

A Yes These books are surrendered to the board if the sailor is leaving the country for 30 days or more When he returns home he may get the book from the board for use while in the United States

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Bombing raids on five Japanese bases in the Central and Northern Solomons were reported today by the navy.

Liberator heavy bombers blasted Japanese areas at Kahili, Buin, and Ballale, in the Northern Solomons and Vila in the Central Solomon area. Results were not observed.

On the same day dauntless dive bombers carried out the 82nd air raid on Munda, starting a fire.

JANITORS END 2-DAY STRIKE

Go Back To School After Forcing 'Vacation.'

EAST LIVERPOOL —(AP)— Fifteen grade school janitors ended a two-day strike today under an agreement calling for the school board to notify them by May 1 whether summer work would be available.

The men, whose walkout Tuesday left buildings unheated and produced unexpected vacations for 3,200 children, demanded 12-month contracts instead of the present nine-month agreements. Raymond Juzzard, school board president, said a two-mill levy would be submitted to voters, probably next month, to provide another $46,000 for school operating expenses.

This would meet the janitors' demands and provide pay increases for about 175 teachers, Juzzard said

BARES REPORT ON MANPOWER

Sanders Claims Co-ordination Lacking in Key Places Within Government.

but said nothing about it when testifying on Feb. 4 last.

Hershey, he said, has stated that such an act is not needed.

Committee members declined to comment on Sanders' report. They had directed him to make the survey in an attempt to clarify the muddled situation and to prepare for their consideration of the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill. Sanders, a former industrial engineer, is chief of the selective service's re-employment division.

The committee resumes its public hearing on the Austin-Wadsworth bill today with Grenville Clark, New York attorney who did the groundwork in drafting this bill as well as the original conscription bill, as the first witness.

The committee recessed its hearing Tuesday to devote all of yesterday to Sanders' report on the need for the labor draft bill. The report is understood to give as alternatives to that reduction of the armed forces, reduction of lend lease supplies or drastic reduction of civilian economy to bed rock.

Fathers To Be Given Notice Before Draft

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Although the drafting of fathers may become general throughout the country within the next three or four months, War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt today stated that this drastic action will not come without prior announcement from Washington and specific orders to local boards.

McNutt sought to reassure married men with families recognized as dependent that they will not be drafted so long as present selective service regulations hold.

Instructions sent out by the national selective service administration to its local boards prohibiting drafting of men with dependent children are still in effect, he said.

"The only men with children who are being selected for induction at the present time," McNutt continued, "are those in whose cases the dependency was acquired after Dec 8, 1941 or at a time when selection was imminent."

"Induction of other fathers cannot take place until selective service headquarters changes its regulations—until there is direct authorization by national headquarters."

However, it was learned, induction of these fathers will almost certainly become general within the next three to four months.

Both WMC Head McNutt and Selective Service Director Hershey have repeatedly stated that the end of the pool of single men is now in sight and that married men will have to be taken.

Clean-Up Starts In Kursk as Civilians Return

The dust of battle has scarcely settled and the last Nazi has just been exterminated, but already the citizens of Kursk are streaming back to their city in the wake of the still advancing Red army. Civilians, men and women, are pictured above hard at work cleaning up the debris of the shattered city. Russian troops now are reported 50 miles west of Kursk in pursuit of the Axis forces.

ALLIES SUFFER SMALL SETBACK

Forced To Retreat in North Tunisia, But Continue Rommel Pursuit.

said, "targets at Tunis and objectives near Mareth were bombed. Yesterday our bombers attacked air fields at Tunis and made raids on enemy landing grounds in the Gabes area. Hits were seen on all the targets attacked, particularly among aircraft on the ground."

Three Axis aircraft were reported destroyed in air combat and three Allied planes are missing.

The Allied push into Sidi Bouzid placed vanguards within a few miles of Faid Pass, through which Marshal Rommel's tank-supported infantry stormed Sunday, Feb. 14, in an offensive that drove at some points as far westward as the Algerian frontier before British and American divisions turned the tide west and northwest of Kasserine Pass.

Reports of the movement of Allied advance forces indicated they already had re-occupied half of the cactus-studded terrain seized by the Germans in the smash which began Feb. 14 and there were no signs Rommel planned to make a stand anywhere short of Faid Pass.

A renewal of fighting was reported meanwhile on the northern front, where the French said their troops had repulsed attempted infiltrations by Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's forces in the area above Medjez-El-Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis.

The French also announced a success on the extreme southern end of the front, declaring their camel corps patrols had reached Netta, approximately 60 miles southwest of Gafta on the northern rim of the Chott Djerid salt marshes.

(A Reuters dispatch reported forward patrols of the British Eighth army facing Rommel's forces across the Mareth line had made a junction with American reconnaissance forces pushing down below Gafsa.)

There were indications the Tunisian campaign was about to enter a new phase stressing aerial activity.

Improving weather has turned large sections of the northern area into vast natural airfields and is permitting the American air forces and the RAF to bring their full strength into action.

On the political front in North Africa, two more French officials with Vichy connections were relieved of their posts. Affected were Col. Maurice Herviot, who was replaced by Col. Ferdinand Taillardat as director of public security in French Morocco, and Gen. Robert Bousseau, relieved as commander of a French division stationed at Oran.

British Subs Sink 7 More Axis Ships

LONDON — (INS) — The admiralty announced today that British submarines operating in the Mediterranean have destroyed seven enemy vessels and damaged nine others.

One British submarine surfaced in the Gulf of Genoa near the Italian coast and opened fire on a shipbuilding yard, scoring several hits on two vessels under construction, while another submersible shelled a train and a railway bridge.

During one action, another submarine was engaged by Italian shore batteries without effect. The submarine scored many hits on its targets and later shelled and sank a minesweeper.

U. S. Cuts Shipment of Food To Recalcitrant Martinique

French West Indies waters for months.

In regard to the merchant ships, Admiral Robert has taken the position that he cannot turn them over without the approval of the Vichy government and the latter is unable to authorize any such transfer under the terms of the Franco-German armistice.

The American government, in the first place, no longer recognizes the existence of the Vichy regime and, secondly, considers that the armistice terms ceased to apply when Germany occupied all France.

In an accord reached with Admiral Robert last May the United States agreed to help maintain the economic life of the French West Indies possessions providing the French warships in Martinique harbor were immobilized and the French authorities there did not furnish any aid or comfort to the Axis.

In view of the admiral's uncooperative attitude and the shortage of foodstuffs in this country, the state department decided to suspend partially the economic arrangement. It is felt that it can be justly argued that the admiral's attitude undoubtedly is giving comfort, if not indirect aid to the enemy.

Win Campaign to Lift Water Level At Pleasant Hill

the condition could be remedied by the construction of drains and cement floors in the basements. The lake level was lowered last fall because of complaints from Perrysville residents of water seeping into basements.

Addressing the association, A. W. Short, chief of the game management section of the Ohio division of conservation, urged city residents and farmers to "make conservation a way of life."

Short said too many people "think wildlife is set aside in a community by itself, but we all live in the same outdoors, and if we have a long-time soil, water, and land conservation program, we'll have plenty of fish and game."

The sportsman must do something to make the farmer's economic problem easier, Short said. He pointed out that the state conservation division is sponsoring a tree-planting program this year instead of bringing rabbits from Missouri to distribute in Ohio.

He urged sportsmen and city residents to give some of their time this season to helping farmers with harvesting, adding that a spirit of helpfulness would bring a better understanding between farmer and sportsman.

Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield told the group that personal contact with the farmer is important to a conservation program.

"When proper conditions are set up, we will have all kinds of game. If we think of conservation in that way, we will have more fun, more money, and better health," Bromfield said.

Miss Louise Reese gave a delegate's report of the recent annual meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen in Columbus.

At the request of John C. Friday, the county association voted $35 in cash prizes for winners in the organization's annual wildlife conservation essay contest for county school children and voted to give a year's subscription to the Ohio Conservation bulletin to each child who submits a completed essay.

SALES SUSPENDED

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Two Cleveland gasoline dealers accused of violating Office of Price Administration regulations by accepting coupons from "A" ration books before they were valid, were ordered to suspend gasoline sales for one week by the regional OPA.

MILLIONS KNEW ATTACK WAS COMING

It happens every year. There's always a time when it seems like everybody has a cold . . . or nearly everybody. So it's a good time to take every precaution you can. Don't overeat, overdrink, overdo, and above all, dress warmly. And if a cold catches up with you with its sniffles, clogged nasal breathing passages and muscle aches making you feel miserable, get after them with old reliable Penetro, the powerful modern medication with a base of the same kind of old fashioned mutton suet Grandma used for her medication. For Penetro works two ways. Outside, counter irritation eases tightness of cold-tortured chest muscles. Inside, Penetro's specially medicated vapors help reduce nasal congestion, and relieve coughing. Stainless, clean, pleasant to use. Get a jar now. Generous size 25c. Double supply only 35c. Always demand Penetro.

where was the damage extensive," the communique said. Three of the German raiders were declared destroyed.

The German planes appeared over London first late last evening and returned again about 4:30 a. m. today. A terrific anti-aircraft barrage greeted the first attack, which kept the city under alarm for approximately 90 minutes. The second lasted little more than an hour.

The Berlin radio, taking wide advantage of the German raid on London said "great devastation" had been caused and many high explosives and thousands of incendiary bombs were dropped. All German planes returned safely, the German account said.

A number of casualties were reported in one London district following the first raid. One commentator described the German effort as "a damp squib."

Reds Pursue Nazis Beyond Rzhev

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians said the Red army continued today to pursue German forces which fled their defense citadel at Rzhev, and under appalling weather conditions Soviet troops plowed forward west and northwest of Kursk to heighten their menace to Orel, the hinge bastion between the central and southern fronts.

(The Berlin radio reported Russian forces had made "local breaches" in the Axis positions on the flanks of the front around Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow.)

Besides endangering Orel, operations northwest of Kursk, 80 miles south of that city, pointed a spear toward Bryansk, which has been the Nazis' main supply base for central front operations.

The capture of Dmitriev-Lgovsky, announced in a special communique last night along with capture of Rzhev and Lgov, placed the Red army columns about 45 miles from the Bryansk railway through Konotop to Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

Dmitriev-Lgovsky is 85 miles southwest of Bryansk on the Bryansk-Lgov railway, 50 miles northwest of Kursk and 65 miles southwest of Orel.

Konotop, one of the German strongholds on the path to Kiev, already is threatened by a Russian advance which earned west to Sumy, 70 miles southeast of Konotop.

Aeronautics Board Ask Airlines To Explain Rates.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics board ordered 11 major airlines today to show cause why they should not reduce passenger fares by ten per cent.

The CAB said the airlines had suspended discounts on passenger fares and also all special fares last July 7 with the result that they increased the average passenger revenue per mile flown.

chart of point values to cover all the new items.

The meat point values will include all major cuts of "red" meats such as spare-ribs, chops and steaks as well as liver, kidneys, heart, brains and sweetbreads.

There was no official information so far about the amount of the planned meat ration, though informed sources believed it probably would average around 1¾ pounds a week per person. Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown told a press conference yesterday it would be "less than 2½ pounds."

Introduction of meat rationing will coincide with the climax of OPA's drive against black market meat operations. Brown outlined a four-point program of attack: 1. meat rationing; 2. licensing of slaughterers by the agriculture department, 3. an extensive advertising campaign to convince the public of the dangers of eating black market meat, 4. enforcement of OPA regulations by prosecution of black market operators.

Brown disclosed that OPA already has undertaken 800 prosecutions, including 300 criminal proceedings, under its enforcement program.

FOOD PROBLEM STRIKES O. S. R.

1,995 Inmates at Reformatory Will Go on Food Point Rationing, Too.

against imposition of that point-rationing system on institutions. An inventory was being taken today of the huge home-canned stock of food at the reformatory, Glattke said. The check was ordered by Sherwood and a report probably will be ready for him in a day or two, the superintendent said.

Unless the reformatory is permitted to exclude its home-canned stock from the rationing regulations, a lot of ration stamps are going to be taken out of the institution's food ration bok.

For example here's what was canned last season at the reformatory:

Green beans, 2,751 gallons, kraut, 6,320 gallons; peaches, 502 gallons; tomatoes, 6,975 gallons, pickled tomatoes, 138 gallons; corn, 530 gallons.

Sherwood said he wasn't certain whether the institutions will handle their own food points or whether the buying will be handled by the central Columbus offices of the welfare department.

In either case, he said, institutions will deposit their points with a "rationing bank," and then write ration "checks" against their accounts. Sugar and coffee rationing points will be handled in the same way.

Sherwood said scarcities of certain commodities also were a problem. He said no bids were received by the welfare department for butter in March.

He added that coffee supplies are dwindling although a daily average of one cup of coffee in state institutions is maintained by using a "stretcher" which gives about 100 cups for each pound of coffee.

Officials Identify Men Who Lost Lives in Glider.

MAXTON, N. C.—(AP)—Maxton air base officials announced today that Flight Officer Leon T. Workman, 24, of Fort Scott, Kan., was killed and Flight Officer Albet Cohen, 23, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was injured in an army glider crash at Lucasville, 12 miles north of Portsmouth, Ohio.

The army plane towing the glider landed at the Portsmouth municipal airport after the pilot noticed the glider was missing. Searchers found the wrecked craft.

Gandhi Survives 21-Day Fast

THE 21-DAY FAST by Mohandas Gandhi has ended and, surprisingly, India's strange little religious and political leader of millions of people passed through the self-imposed ordeal successfully.

It is rather difficult for Americans to attach much seriousness to Gandhi's rather frequent fasting periods, and in this country he would probably be classed either as an "eccentric" or a "nut," depending on the dignity or crudity of appellation.

It should be kept in mind, however, that Gandhi and his followers are not so "practical" as we are and that they are more swayed by tradition.

News-Journal readers who have been following the articles by DeWitt Mackenzie that have been appearing on this page have had opportunity to get a clearer idea of the complex social, religious and political problems presented by India, and will realize why no simple formula such as, "Give India immediate independence," will provide a satisfactory solution.

Mr. Mackenzie has stressed the point that what is going on in India is of vital importance to the United Nations in carrying on the war against Japan. He sees possibility for a compromise settlement of differences but believes that the initiative must come from the British, with already expressed points of agreement as a basis for negotiations. In the article which appears elsewhere on this page Mr. Mackenzie touches on this phase of the situation in India.

Bombs That Miss Their Mark

THE HEADLINES read "Yank Planes Pound Rommel" or "U. S. Guns Batter Japs." To anyone knowing the terrific destructive force of "block-buster" bombs or heavy artillery, these headlines conjure up a picture of ruinous havoc wrought upon our enemies. A natural inference is that it would not take a great deal of this sort of thing to wipe out completely the forces thus belabored.

Actually, as any degree of afterthought will show, it is far from being as simple as that. In bombing a city, even one presenting as big a target as London, a vast amount of explosives is utterly wasted, falling on streets, vacant lots, streams or empty buildings. Even when troops are the target, they find ways of taking cover.

Enough shells were fired in the first World war to wipe completely out of existence the entire fighting force on both sides two and three times over, had they hit. But many did not hit their mark, and that is why millions on both sides remained in the field until the armistice. Marksmanship is better in the present war, with the better bombsights, but there is great waste at best.

White House Example Would Help

ACCORDING to an OPA ruling, the White House is an "institution," not a home, and therefore is freed from requirement to declare the number of cans of rationed foods on hand.

Without intention to quibble over the "institution" designation—which seems quite appropriate during the gratis tenancy of Harry Hopkins—it does appear that some slight gesture of willingness, on the part of White House occupants, to share in restrictions imposed on other Americans, might have a morale-building effect which admonitions are incapable of producing.

An idea prevalent over the country is that not only the White House occupants but many other high- and low-placed Washington officials and New Deal hangers-on are continuing to live on a scale of luxury that is being increasingly denied their employers—the taxpayers of America—and it is not unlikely that this belief has materially retarded more widespread willing compliance with the rationing program and other wartime restraints on individual freedom of action.

This is not justification, of course, for anything less than all-out effort on the part of everybody to conform fully to government restrictions. It merely means that if officialdom does less than it should, the rank and file of people must DO MORE—for the war MUST BE WON, despite handicaps.

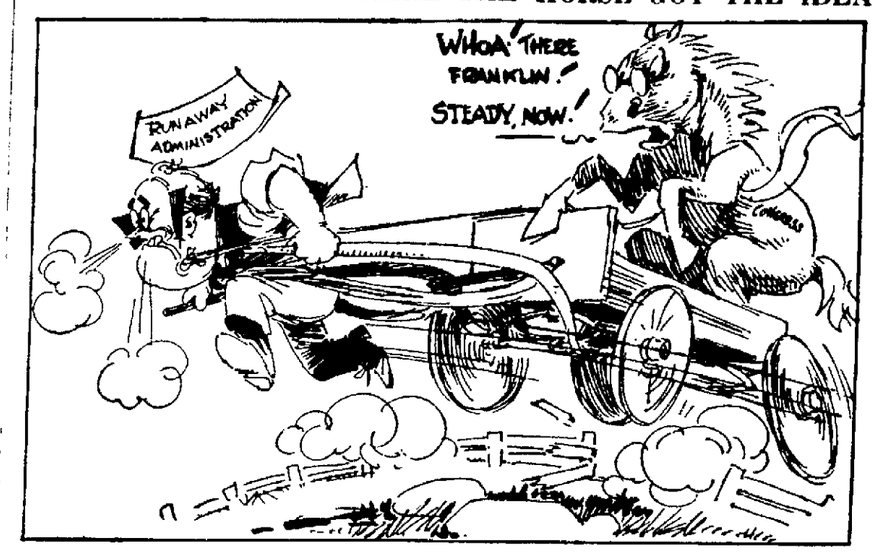
It might have profited Hitler to read something of Daniel Webster. For instance, his utterance in November, 1849: "There is something on earth greater than arbitrary or despotic power, and that is the aroused indignation of the civilized world."

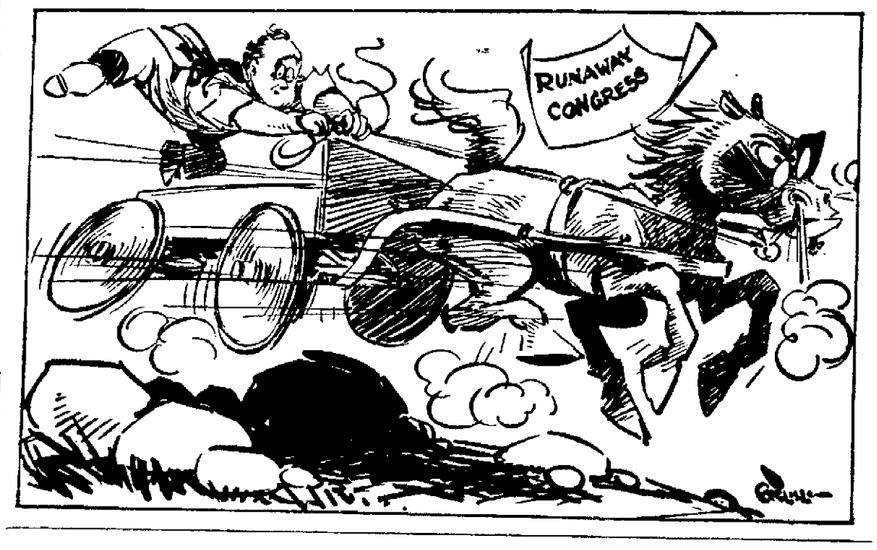
This is an appropriate time to repeat the old American saying, which goes as follows: "There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us."

Word comes that "office boys" employed by a Salt Lake City firm are 72, 73 and 75 years old—which should eliminate some of the customary excuses for absence.

It should also be explained that the Beveridge plan, as originated in England, has nothing to do with coffee rationing.

WELL, YOU KNOW WHERE THE HORSE GOT THE IDEA





Compromise Program for India Seems Possible In War Crisis

(Editor's Note: DeWitt Mackenzie, war analyst of the News-Journal, concludes his series of articles on India with tomorrow's article in which he will sum up the crisis.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

WHEN I came away from my conferences with Mahomed Ali Jinnah, brilliant leader of India's great Moslem minority, it was with the hunch—I can't describe it as anything more concrete—that he would be willing to compromise on his program for Pakistan (a wholly independent Moslem state) and thereby perhaps pave the way for a general settlement of the whole Indian political crisis.

I found much encouragement among other observers who know Jinnah well, though they in turn lacked any definite assurance from the great man. Pakistan is more than a Moslem ideal; it's a powerful weapon, and the Moslem leader is too farsighted to abandon it before it has served its purpose of forcing large concessions.

I hasten to add that this thought is no reflection on Mr. Jinnah's undoubted sincerity. He believes in Pakistan.

One of the most surprising and hopeful signs which Mr. Jinnah let fall was his offer to join with the Hindus "in a government for the duration of the war, for the purpose of supporting the war effort." There was a proviso that the British government and the Hindus must agree to the principle of Pakistan.

Now that's mighty important, I've already reported that I found a widespread belief in India that the solution of the political crisis would be for the British government arbitrarily to establish a provisional national government and invite all the warring factions to participate in the interests of the Allied war effort.

Those advocating this included such great figures as Dr. Syama Prasad Mooker Jee working president of the Orthodox Hindu organization known as the Hindu Mahasabha and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, the famous Hindu liberal.

It is felt that war service would provide the medium to draw the parties together. In that connection it is highly interesting to note that Dr. Mooker Jee and Mr. Jinnah, both of whom advocate this sensational move, are heads of political organizations which are the bitterest of opponents.

ANOTHER point which Jinnah made to me was that the provisional government should be set up immediately in view of the importance of India to the Allied cause.

That agrees exactly with my own observations. It is dangerous to the general war effort to allow this destructive political crisis to drag on in one of the most vital of the Allied bases. But let me give you Jinnah's complete statement regarding to this proposal:

"Reverting to your question regarding a compromise, if the British government and the Hindus will agree to the principle of partition (Pakistan) then the Moslems will participate in a government for the duration of the war, for the purpose of supporting the war effort.

"However, this must be contingent on the British government giving a categorical promise that partition will be carried out after the war if a majority of Moslems vote for it in a plebiscite in the various Moslem provinces. In other words, there must be no monkey business.

"If a plebiscite is taken and a majority of Moslems don't vote for partition, why then I shall salute all hands and call off Pakistan altogether. (And the colorful Jinnah, who years ago was a Shakespearean actor, saluted.)

"If the British government will give this promise, and the Hindus refuse to participate in this war government, then the Moslems will co-operate with any other elements in the country in our own interests and those of the Allies and defend India against any aggressor.

"I believe tht India should make this contribution, and I think that it should be done immediately. It is unwise to leave the political situation in its present state in view of the importance of India to the cause of the United Nations."

Well now, one can see with half an eye that if the Indian factions could work together for the duration of the war, there would be real hopes of their being able to continue that co-operation after the war.

The consensus among observers is that the Moslem minority could be protected by constitutional safeguards.

Cowboy's Lament.

There's a real heart throb behind the outcry by the directors of the Montana Cowboys' association that the slaughter of horses for human consumption is "something akin to barbarism." The horse he rides is the cowboy's companion and friend. Using him for food must seem like an approach to cannibalism.

But the words of the protest themselves explain why the practice is being forced on the country. We fight something considerably worse than a force merely "akin to barbarism," for a primitive barbarism may be clean and honest. Our enemy represents a combine of evil never before seen in the world. Lamentably little room is left for sentiment, cowboy's or otherwise, if we are to survive.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Freshmen Legislators Get Aboard Government Payroll Gravy Train

WASHINGTON—It now looks as if the air cooling systems which were to be yanked out of the senate, house of representatives and various government departments would not be yanked out at all, and the solons could keep reasonably cool this summer.

Reason for this is new WPB Production Boss Charlie Wilson, recent head of General Electric. Wilson has not changed these plans because of any special regard for the comfort of congressmen. The change briefly boils down to this. The air cooling systems were needed because of their compressors, for compressors are one great bottleneck of war production today.

Compressors are used in making synthetic rubber, high octane gasoline, and other vital war materials. And before Wilson took over WPB production the ordering of compressors was pretty much of a mess. There was no co-ordination. The navy, the army had bid against each other. The Maritime Commission and Lend-Lease had bid against them. Each had gone to the best compressor companies, and factories were loaded with orders that would not be finished for some years.

So Wilson called in all the compressor companies, and had them line up their orders. Then he told them to add extra shifts to their own plants and subcontract to about 300 smaller plants.

Wilson talks the language of a manufacturer, not of a banker or Wall Street broker (the WPB, army and navy are loaded down with both). The compressor manufacturers knew that if they didn't produce, Wilson would demand their designs and set up competitors who would be in business against them after the war. That is the last thing they want.

Wilson didn't have to make any threats. They understood his language. He is getting the compressors.

New Converts to Nepotism.

MOST freshmen congressmen prefer to be seen and not heard, but there's nothing backward about them where nepotism is concerned.

Here are a few of the congressional yearlings, most of them Republicans, who are drawing extra pay checks for members of their families:

Representative Alvin E. O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin—His wife, Veronica H. O'Konski, is his secretary at $3,900 a year.

Representative James C. Auchincloss, Republican of New Jersey—His wife, Lee Auchincloss, gets $3,200 a year.

Representative Henderson Carson, Republican, of Ohio—His wife, Ella Carson, is on the payroll, at $1,700 a year.

Representative Norris Poulson, Republican, of California—Pays his daughter, Erna, a clerk, $1,370 a year.

Representative John P. Newsome, Democrat, of Alabama—His wife, Lulu H. Newsome, is on the payroll, at $1,100 a year.

Representative James Gallagher, Republican, of Pennsylvania—Pays his son, James Gallagher, jr., a clerk, $1,250 a year.

Representative Thomas Gordon, Democrat, of Illinois—Has a daughter, Romona, on the payroll, at $1,000 a year.

Dagger at U. S. Back.

HERE is the lowdown on the visit of Franco's special representative, ex-Spanish Foreign Minister Beigbeder, to this country.

Franco's regular representative, Ambassador Juan Cardenas, has been sending him what he wanted to hear, rather than the truth about the way the American people have put their hearts into the war. Cardenas has emphasized the clash of personalities and inefficiency of war production which get into the headlines but is not the general rule.

When U. S. officials learned of this, they conceived the idea of bringing a special Franco envoy to the U. S. A. to get the real picture. Actually it was the war department, not the state department, which hatched the inspiration and which is taking him on a tour of war plants and army posts to drink in the real spirit of the war effort.

Note: Many high-up officials here believe Franco is an opportunist who, regardless of pledges, will jump whichever way he sees the war going in the spring. He could, if he wished, plunge a dagger into the back of U. S. forces in North Africa. Beigbeder has a background of friendship for the United States.

He bases this on the fact that soldiers today are getting intensive specialist training. . . . ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Memories That Will Last a Lifetime Result From War's Peculiar Sounds.

THE TUNISIAN FRONT—(By Wireless): It was odd, the way we went up into the thick of the battle in our jeep. We didn't attach ourselves to anybody. We didn't ask anybody if we could go. We just started the motor and went.

As we smashed along over a field of new grain, which pushed its small shoots just a few inches above earth, the asinine thought popped into my head: "I wonder if the army got permission to use this land before starting the attack." Both sides had crossed these farms in the past 24 hours. The fields were riddled by deep ruts and by wide, spooky tracks of the almost mythical Mark VI tanks. Evidence of the previous day's battle was still strewn across the desert. We passed charred half-tracs. We stopped to look into burned-out tank, named Tomes from which a friend of mine and his crew had demolished four German tanks before being put out of commission themselves.

ERNIE PYLE

We passed an abandoned trailer still full of American ammunition. The young lieutenant wanted to hook our own jeep to it as a tow when we returned, but I talked him out of it. I feared the Germans had booby-trapped it during the night.

WE MOVED on closer to the actual tank battle ahead, but never went right into it—for in a jeep that would have been a fantastic form of suicide. We stopped, I should judge, about a mile behind the foremost tanks.

Behind us the desert was still alive with men and machines moving up. Later we learned that some German tanks had maneuvered in behind us and were shooting up our half-tracs and jeeps. But, unfortunately, we didn't know all this at the time.

Light American tanks came up from the rear and stopped near us. They were to be held there in reserve, in case they had to be called into the game in this league which was much too heavy and hot for them. Their crews jumped out the moment they stopped, and began digging foxholes against the inevitable arrival of the dive bombers.

Soon the dive bombers came. They set fires behind us. American and German tanks were burning ahead of us. Our planes came over, too, straffing and bombing the enemy.

One of our half-tracs, full of ammunition, was livid red, with flames leaping and swaying. Every few seconds one of its shells would go off, and the projectile would tear into the sky with a weird whanging sort of noise.

FIELD ARTILLERY had stopped just on our right. They began shelling the German artillery beyond our tanks. It didn't take long for the Germans to answer.

The scream of an approaching shell is an appalling thing. We could hear them coming—(you sort of duck inside yourself, without actually ducking at all).

Then we could see the dust kick up a couple of hundred yards away. The shells hit the ground and ricocheted like armor-piercing shells, which do not explode, but skip along the ground until they finally lose momentum or hit something.

War has its own peculiar sounds. They are not really very much different from sounds in the world of peace. But they clothe themselves in an unforgettable fierceness, just because born in danger and death.

The clank of a starting tank, the scream of a shell through the air, the ever-rising whine of fiendishness as a bomber dives—these sounds have their counterparts in normal life, and you would be hard put to distinguish them in a blindfold test. But, once heard in war, they remain with you forever.

Their nervous memories come back to you in a thousand ways—in the grind of a truck starting in low gear, in high wind around the eaves, in somebody whistling a tune. Even the sound of a shoe, dropped to the floor in a hotel room above you, becomes indistinguishable from the faint boom of a big gun far away. A mere rustling curtain can paralyze a man with memories.

Dave Boone Says:

NOBODY exactly gloats over air raids on cities and towns away from the battle line anywhere, but you can't help wondering at the Berlin mind that calls the raids on that city "cowardly on the part of America in view of the fact its shores are a safe distance away."

* * *

This talk of cowardly attacks comes pretty poorly from those who bear the guilt of countless helpless places all across Europe. It comes from the people who desolated Lidice and Coventry and shrines of Holland, Belgium and Greece.

What a different tune the Nazis play when the bombers come home to roost?

Well, the high pitch of the war this week ought to make us all the more anxious to give all we can to the Red Cross drive.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

Green Farm Hand

"AN ARMY of city people may be a help during harvest," remarked an old farmer, "but my experience has been that it takes 'em a while to catch on.

"I tried a high school boy from town the first year after my own boy went to the war. He was a tall, bright, good natured lad who wanted a job and said he was willing to do anything I told him.

"I had him get on the tractor with me and watch me plow. He was interested and asked lots of questions. After I'd plowed five acres or so, I let him jump down and hitch the tractor to the disk and told him to do the driving. He went all right for a ways, then before I could get there he backed, instead of going forward. He broke the hitch and cut a new tire clear through on the edge of a disk. I spent the whole afternoon in town trying to get the tire fixed—and it cost me plenty, too.

"In the feeding entry I had three bins, metal lined. One for laying mash, one for hog feed and one for the dairy cattle. He saw me do the feeding three different mornings, then I let him try it himself. When I asked how he did it, he told me just right. I didn't bother much and let that be his morning job. The next week the hens dropped off in egg production, the cows lost in their milk, and the pigs squealed and caroused whenever I came near.

"Then I found out the boy'd forgotten which bin was which—he'd fed the laying mash to the hogs and the dairy feed to the chickens, and the hog feed to the cows. After I had cornered him, he admitted he'd got it wrong, but said he thought it wouldn't make much difference, for it all looked about the same, anyway. That was a bigger loss than the fire.

"Another time he ran the tractor into the boggy part of the pasture—not his fault. He didn't know the farm, and thought he'd save time by cutting across lots with a load of wood.

"He was a good boy. My wife liked him. But he hadn't any sleight at farming. Sometimes I pitied him because he was so willing and tried so hard. He'd make a farmer, but it'd take several years of close training, for seems like most everything on the farm he didn't know. I'd hire him right now, if I could, though. I've learned something too, since he was here—maybe now I could teach him better."

New Deal Administration Ends Tenth Year

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The tenth anniversary of the New Deal March 4, finds the political juggernaut facing effective opposition for the first time in the amazing decade since President Roosevelt entered the White House.

There have been setbacks before—the Supreme Court fight and such but they were never more than temporary and a few days or weeks found the New Deal blitzkrieg rolling again.

In the elections last year the Democrats took the worst drubbing since they came to power. They retained numerical superiority in the house by the skin-of-the-teeth majority of 14 and their majority in the senate was cut to 18.

Was this a straw in the election wind? The anti-New Deal Democrats apparently figured it so, for the rebellion in congress is the talk of Washington and of the country.

ALMOST from the start of the new congress it was apparent that this was not just a scrap between the White House and the Hill on a single issue. The house in particular and the senate to a lesser degree has shown a disposition to slap the administration down on every major piece of legislation in the offing.

The situation has gotten so serious that we have the unique condition arising where leaders of the Republican party have come to the rescue. Listen to Republican Senator Robert A. Taft: "We ought to exercise discrimination and NOT be against something just because the president is for it."

When Republicans worry openly about the fate of laws and agencies the anti-New Dealers are threatening to shelve or hamstring the situation is more than serious, it's critical.

THE tenth anniversary of the New Deal also brings with it talk of a fourth term. No sooner had this talk begun than anti-New Dealers began to whisper threats of a third party—an anti-Roosevelt party.

Many observers here take this third party threat seriously. They argue that the rebel Democrats are willing even to let the Republicans win and look to 1948 for regaining the ground lost.

If President Roosevelt doesn't choose to run again, the third party talk would disappear. But that it is there now is the important thing.

The anti-New Deal storm won't blow over completely, but it could quiet down. Observers here feel the wartime temper of the people won't stand for much bickering and intra-party politics if they threaten the war effort.

But many sideline commentators believe the New Deal will never be the same again.

Nothing really exciting has happened to me in years and yet I find each day pretty exciting somehow. Maybe that's because I'm happy. But I must be going now."

Evelyn said, "I'm so sorry to see you go. We must—"

"Yes," Freda said. "We must."

Stepping into the shadows of late afternoon, Freda walked briskly to her car, the heat of her temper warming her. If Ian knew he would say, "Now don't be prejudiced, Freda," and she would say, "I'm not. I don't have to see it written down in red ink to know that Bill had married a broken-down aristocrat. You wouldn't understand, darling. You're too innocent. But Bill had married a lazy, expensive girl who won't for a second let him forget that she went to school in Switzerland and he to a public school. I know the type. They're poisonous and they cling like leaches. What little commonsense they have goes into grabbing off the first reliable citizen who comes along and wants to marry them after they pass 21 and nothing better has come along. But I haven't figured her out yet. I don't know if she's stupid or clever."

But she couldn't tell Ian. She couldn't and wouldn't tell anyone that she had met Bill's new wife this afternoon.

Closing the door after Freda, Evelyn went back to the divan and lay down and cushioned her head with her long arms. She was not only vastly amused, but vastly pleased that she had had a caller. Not that this particular caller mattered. They were probably all the same here from Mrs. Jones to Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Kelly. Small-town socialites aping the real thing, getting ideas from the movies on how to dress and decorate their homes. She relaxed, took a deep, delicious breath as she thought that she had half an hour in which to be lazy before she must dress for Bill.

She yawned, wishing that Charlotte, her older sister, were here to see how well she was doing. Good old Charlotte, tweedy, plain awkward, horse-loving Charlotte, wife of Dick Stoddard and mother of two pig-tailed little girls as awkward and as horse-loving as she.

For good old Charlotte had said in the bedroom of her big Long Island house, "Evelyn, for your own sake, try to be a good wife to Bill. It's bad enough to take him away from his wife, but it will be much worse if you make a mess of it. I'm not going to dwell on his wife. I don't know her. I'm glad I don't. But I'm sorry for her, terribly sorry for her. But Bill is in his right mind and he wants to marry you and he's the only worthwhile man you've ever been interested in. Thank God, you got over that orchestra leader. Bill may not know how to sit on a horse, but at least he isn't an orchestra leader! And if you aren't too lazy, you can make a very decent life for yourself in Clinton with Bill. Dick agrees with me. He thinks that the divorce is unfortunate, but that if you behave yourself, you can live it down. But, you know, Dick has been terribly disgusted with you, darling, lately."

Poor old Charlotte, so serious, so well-meaning.

Evelyn liked to think of her childhood as the spoiled, pretty child of popular parents. The school in Switzerland and the holidays at Cannes . . . They had had money then and it had been taken for granted that Evelyn would make an even more brilliant match than had Charlotte who had surprised everybody by marrying a rich, middle-aged man who thought everything Charlotte did was perfect. But her gay parents had died together in the little house in Cannes that had burned to the ground one night and when their tangled affairs had been straightened, it became known that they had lived far in excess of their income.

As a poor girl Evelyn's popularity had waned, and so she had come home to live with Charlotte only to find that her sister's life and friends were intolerably dull and that American millionaires under 40 were incredibly rare. And so she had drifted among various groups of people, giving nothing of herself because she had nothing to give, but was always welcome for decorative purposes. Charlotte and Dick did not approve of her friends, and Evelyn frequently stayed away for weeks, returning only when Dick's allowance was exhausted.

She had never been in love with anyone until she met Rand Andrews, the leader of a swing orchestra. She had never been in love with anyone because she had always been too much in love with her own comfort, though innumerable men, thinking her exotic, had briefly, been in love with her. She liked having several men in love with her and it had not occurred to her until recently and then at Charlotte's insistence that she should be making up her mind to marry since the supply of new men could not last indefinitely, and also since only one man had ever asked her to marry him and she had turned him down.

Slowly, for her mind worked slowly, it occurred to her that it was one thing to have several men want to take you to dinner, but quite another thing to have them want to buy you three meals for the rest of your life.

She had loved Rand as deeply and as intensely as she was capable of loving anyone. She had loved him enough to stir herself from her usual lathergic state to follow him to Miami and there to spend two exciting weeks. Rand, handsome, popular, athletic, had actually made her swim, play tennis and walk around Miami and, in the evening, sit at a table alone and listen to the orchestra until he could join her. But he did not tell her that he loved her, and Evelyn, inarticulate in everything except small social talk, could not tell him.

When he had had to leave to keep an engagement in Chicago he had said, "It's been swell, Evelyn. Wonderful. You've been like a picture sitting at the table every night waiting for me. You've given me some wonderful moments a guy like me won't forget. You're . . . But you can't come to Chicago with me and—and that's that. It's tough, but that's the way it is. I don't kid myself. The going has been too tough for me. I'm a here-today and gone-tomorrow kind of guy. I'm making hay while sun shines and you're—you're something else. You're Dick Stoddard's sister-in-law and that counts me out, baby."

She had been stunned and hurt more than anything else she had wanted to marry Rand and follow his orchestra and have people admire her as she sat at a table alone and looked at him. She had not cried and the hurt had not lasted long. Back in the Long Island house she slid back into the comfortable niche until Bill, coming to New York to see Dick on business, had come out one evening to dinner.

From the first night he had not been able to keep his eyes from her and Evelyn had thought how unusually good-looking and good-humored he was if enormously unsophisticated and a bit stuffy and conventional. A self-made young man, honest and ambitious and apparently deeply impressed by Charlotte's beautiful home and social position, he had been a new type to Evelyn, though, after he left, she had thought no more about him. For one evening quickly forgotten it had been rather pleasant to have a man worship you from afar especially since most of the men she knew were either getting married or making up their minds not to get married, and the field was narrowing alarmingly.

When Bill had come to New York again, he had called Evelyn, and she had had some difficulty in recalling him. However, she met him in New York for dinner and dancing, pleased again at his little-boy worship of her. As the time went on and each time he came she saw him, she began to feel more and more pleased at his attentions and almost touched by his young ardor. She had told Charlotte, "You'd think he'd never kissed a girl before," and poor old Charlotte had looked quite disturbed. Then one night Bill had awkwardly told her he loved her and asked, if his wife would divorce him, would she marry him?

Never able to decide a serious issue for herself, Evelyn had taken the matter to Charlotte and Dick who had looked more disturbed than ever and had said finally that if that was what Bill wanted, there was nothing they could do about it. Then Dick had looked immensely relieved.

Of Carol, Evelyn had thought little. When she thought of her at all, she thought that Carol was doubtlessly a drab, mousy little thing Bill had married when he was a mere boy and who had failed miserably to keep apace with an aggressive, successful husband. It was too bad but . . .

OHIOANS CAN SEE LONDON, ROME WITHOUT GOING OUTSIDE STATE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohioans may not be able to travel abroad for the duration, and they may be unable to go sightseeing across the continent.

But they need no passport to visit either London or Moscow, they needn't worry about being interned in Rome or Berlin, and they may be able to stretch their gas rations to take in Broadway, Florida and California.

Vacationers with a yen for foreign travel in 1943 probably won't get to see the Kremlins, but they can go to Moscow in either Clermont or Holmes county, Ohio; and while they probably won't get to hear Big Ben strike the hour, they can journey to London in Madison. They can go to Africa in Delaware county without encountering Rommel's legions; they can go from St Paris to Lisbon or South Vienna with only a single county line "frontier" to cross; and if they prefer to remain in this hemisphere they can travel through Mexico in Wyandot county, New Rome is in Franklin, and Berlin in Jackson and Williams counties.

As for those who would rather see America first, they'll find Florida, with or without sunshine, in a small village in Henry county, or its famous west coast competition in New California, Union county. And if they feel the lure of the bright lights they'll find Broadway also in Union county.

Ohioans are well fixed not only for overcoming gas rationing restrictions, but they can even overlook some of the OPA's new limitations on food consumption. There's a "Crabapple" in Belmont, three "Oranges" in Coshocton, Cuyahoga and Delaware counties, and a "Cherry Grove" in Hamilton. To top it off, they can "Lick Skillet" in either Ross or Meigs, and perhaps find sweetening in "Sugar Grove," Fairfield county.

And finally, the Buckeye state offers everything worth fighting for. The map show Success, Joy, Hope, and Fairplay; Honesty, Friendship, Enterprise and Harmony.

You can get to "Congress" without going through a strenuous election campaign, and students of government will find the "Constitution" in Washington county.

Clark county has its "Pitchin" and Ross county its "Knock 'Em Stiff," so when, at long last, the war-weary Axis decides to give up the struggle, Clark county can produce an "Olive Branch," Portage can hold up the banner of "Freedom," and Clermont will see that the post-war world becomes indeed "Utopia."

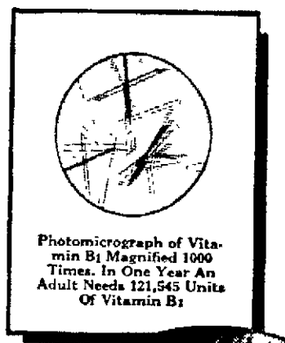
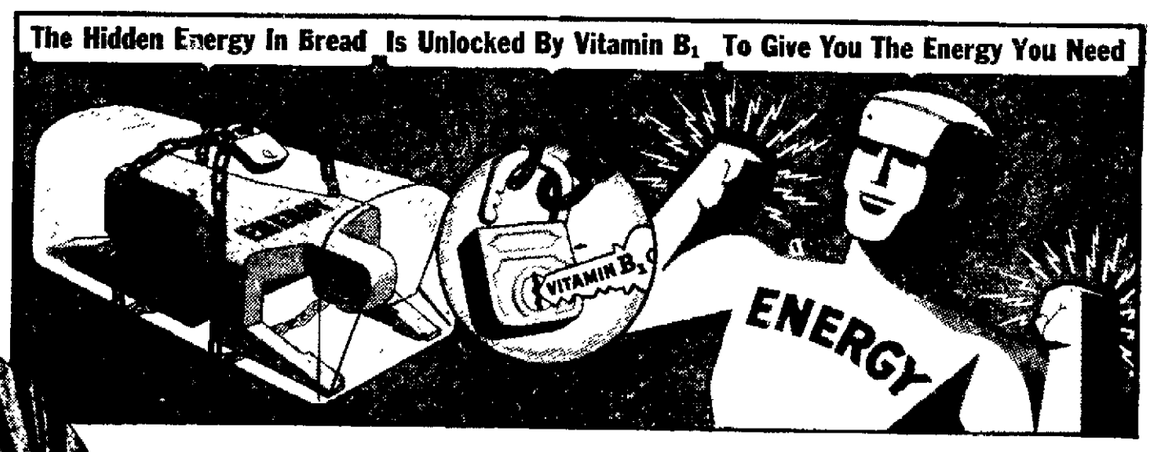
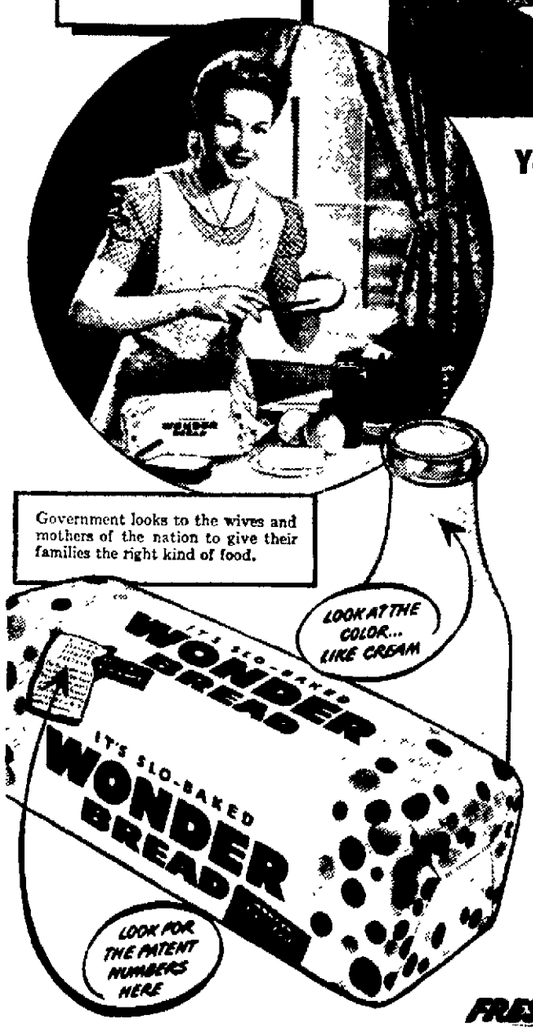
SCIENCE DISCOVERS VITAMIN B_1 NECESSARY TO HELP TRANSFORM BREAD INTO ENERGY



Photomicrograph of Vitamin B_1 Magnified 1000 Times. In One Year An Adult Needs 121,545 Units Of Vitamin B_1





Government looks to the wives and mothers of the nation to give their families the right kind of food.
IT'S SLO-BAKED WONDER BREAD
LOOK AT THE COLOR... LIKE CREAM
LOOK FOR THE PATENT NUMBERS HERE

Yet Of The Millions Who Rely Upon Bread For Up To 35% Of Their Daily Energy—3 Out Of 4 Fail To Get A Good Diet, U. S. Officials Say. Thus, Can Fail To Get Enough Vitamin B_1

New Wonder Bread Thrills Thousands Everywhere Because:
(1) Contains Vitamin B_1 (2) Slo-Baked For Lasting Freshness
(3) Tastes Better (4) Proves Easier-To-Slice

What everybody knows is that millions of people rely upon bread for up to 35% of their daily energy.

But what you may not know is that you must have Vitamin B_1 to help transform the bread you eat into the energy you need.

Science today proves conclusively that it takes Vitamin B_1 to unlock bread's hidden energy.

Now—according to U. S. Government Health Officials, 3 out of 4 people fail to get a good diet; thus can fail to get enough Vitamin B_1 naturally.

This does not mean that you lack Vitamin B_1 so badly the bread you eat does you no good. But it does mean that your body cannot properly transform bread into the energy you must have these days unless you get sufficient Vitamin B_1.

A New Kind Of Bread

Now, wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B_1 into wheat. But—in making bread whiter—man took it out.

Then Theodore Earle patented a way to retain more natural vitamins and minerals in flour.

And mass production by American industry made possible further additions of the Vitamin B_1 needed in the bread. A bread now better for flavor and better for health than before.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it; fresh when you eat it.

Because it is slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer it stays fresh on the table and in the lunch box.

In addition, Wonder's slo-baking method gives you bread with a richer flavor now.

And—a finer, tenderer texture. You'll find it easy to slice—and it leaves no crumbs.

Get new Wonder Bread at your grocer's today. You'll be glad you did!

GALION SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES PAY SCHEDULES

Committee Named To Revise Salary Set-up; Financial Report Given.

GALION — The appointment of a committee to study the teacher salary schedule with the idea of revising it if possible, was made by the Galion board of education at its monthly meeting, Wednesday afternoon.

Board members, Louise John and Mrs. Charles B. Monroe, together with M. A. Povenmire, superintendent of schools, were named by the board to serve with two members of the Classroom Teachers association. The C. T. A. will name its representatives.

Some time was spent by the board in studying the course of study in the schools, but no action was taken.

Ora Tracht was added to the high school substitute teacher list by the board.

The board clerk, Isabel Monroe, presented a financial report. This showed a balance of $4,751.92 as of Feb. 1. Receipts during the past month were $22,586, making a grand total of $27,338. The expenditures included some $9,500 for the general fund, and some $2,438 in the bond fund. This left a balance of $15,398 to be divided as follows: $6,424 in the general fund, $8,688 in the bond fund, and $285.96 victory tax.

The janitorial vacancy, made by the resignation of C. B. Carleton, will not be filled until after March 12 when a civil service examination will be held.

The board voted to go back on the previous schedule of opening school for the elementary grades at 8:45 a. m., instead of the 9 a. m. opening now in effect. This will become effective March 15.

APPROVE FUNDS FOR SHELBY JOB

Federal Officials Put O. K. on Revised Plans for Water Improvement.

SHELBY—Federal government officials in Chicago have approved the revised application for funds made by Shelby for the Municipal Water company improvements.

The application was revised so that the federal grants would be $100,000 while the city would furnish $65,000 for the project. The city previously had asked the federal government to furnish $135,000 for the program.

The city will raise its share by borrowing $30,600 from the Municipal Light company funds and issuing bonds for the balance.

Final approval of the project will come at Washington where the application has been forwarded from the Chicago office.

The improvement program includes the construction of a dam across the Black Fork branch of the Mohican river here to impound 1,800,000 gallons of water which would be pumped to a 50 million-gallon upground storage reservoir and from there through a 7,500-foot pipeline to the water company plant. This would furnish an auxiliary water supply for the city wells.

BOARD ELECTS

Crestline Woman's Club Picks Mrs. J. F. McMahon Again.

CRESTLINE — Reorganization of the executive board of the Crestline Woman's club was affected at a recent meeting of the board.

Mrs. J. F. McMahon was re-elected president, Mrs. C. E. Iman, vice president; Miss Freada Miller, recording secretary, and Miss Ednah Smith, treasurer. The latter is a new member of the board and succeeds Miss Elizabeth O'Leary, who was treasurer the past year. Other members of that board include Mrs. John Berger, jr., Mrs. Robert Beck, Miss Marie Welshon, Mrs. O. F. Hull, Mrs. C. E. Cook, Mrs. C. L. Klahn and Mrs. J. B. McCarter.

The board conducted other routine business.

The March meeting of the Woman's club will be held Monday evening, March 8, at which time Janette T. Harrington of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Columbus, will talk on "The War Hits Home."

GALION WORKER HURT IN MISHAP

GALION — Struck by a small tree while at work at the Hurley farm, southwest of Galion, on the proposed city reservoir site, Nicholas Swanson, 61, suffered a severe scalp laceration and injured left shoulder. He was admitted to City hospital for treatment being taken there in a local ambulance.

The accident occurred Wednesday morning, and according to the foreman of the municipal water system, C. Albert Bauer, who arrived shortly after the accident occurred, Swanson was struck across the top of his head when the tree fell. The area is being cleared by workmen.

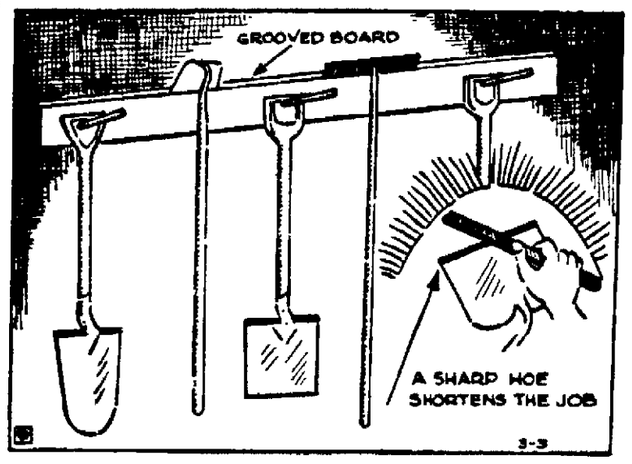
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



INDOOR PLANNING FOR OUTDOOR VICTORY GARDEN

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released By Central Press Association

One can nudge Nature and get a head start for a Victory garden by growing plants indoors for outdoor planting. Four to six weeks can be gained by sowing seeds indoors over those sown outdoors. Elaborate or expensive equipment is not necessary for indoor planting. Since only simple equipment and tools are needed for starting plants indoors, the foresighted Victory gardener will gather these together in readiness for the time when the seeds arrive.

While pots or pans can be used to prepare the seed bed, wooden flats are preferable since they do not dry out so readily. The standard garden flat is 3 inches deep, 18 inches long and 12 inches wide. This size is practical because it is easy to handle even when filled with earth. The bottom of the flat can be in one piece with holes bored in it for drainage purposes, or it can be a slat bottom with spaces for drainage.

It is not necessary to have rich soil in which to plant seeds indoors, but it must be well broken up and porous, to allow water and air to pass through it readily. Such a soil can be made by mixing equal parts of beach or builders' sand and a good loam or garden soil.

PRINCE TELLS HOW GERMANS RULE BELGIUM

Grandson of King Albert Has Tragic Story of Life Under Nazis.

LONDON —(INS)— Prince Albert de Ligne, 30-year-old godson of the late King Albert of the Belgians, has arrived in London with a tragic story of life in his country under German occupation.

The prince, who is a member of one of Belgium's oldest families, escaped from the Nazis.

The most significant picture the prince draws of Belgium today is not of the Belgians, but of the occupying German troops.

"In 1940," said Prince Albert, "the Nazis were well dressed, fine upstanding men—how well I remember them, for I was a sergeant in the 6th artillery regiment which met the first wave of invasion of May 10, 1940.

"But today, the occupying troops are small, bandy-legged, sickly badly equipped and poorly disciplined. Along the coast, however, they have a strong line of good troops."

Describing the life of the Belgians, the prince said:

"Rationing is most severe. No one has any milk and tuberculosis among children has increased by eighty per cent. For the first time since Belgium became independent, the death rate now is higher than the birthrate.

All movies and theaters in Brussels and Antwerp have been taken over by the Germans who will not allow even a Walt Disney cartoon to be shown. Only German and old French films are exhibited.

Taxis and buses have disappeared, according to the Prince, and thousands of Germans, with their families have come to live in Belgium. They have occupied an enormous number of private houses and flats

Where Allies Smashed Convoy

The above map shows where Allied bombers under the command of General MacArthur completely disrupted Japanese military plans by smashing to oblivion an enemy convoy of 22 ships, 62 planes and 15,000 men in a two-day battle. Starting from Rabaul, the convoy was heading for Lae on New Guinea when it was caught by the Allied fliers and obliterated off Cape Gloucester.

Former Burgomaster of Brussels, Van Den Meulbroeck, who, like his famed predecessor Adolpha Max, defied the Germans, has been imprisoned in the Chateau of Berlaer.

Y REPORTS OR HIS 200TH TRANSFUSION

d Disease Forces Youth To Visit Hospital Often To Keep Alive.

CW YORK — (INS) — Mount hospital, which was 90 years peration recently, planned to cize the admittance of its 00th patient, but it was the nt who stole the show. For, care of his significance as the millionth patient, a little klyn boy applied for a blood fusion . . . his 200th!

his staggering total of transons is necessitated by a d disease to which the boy fallen victim, known as reerative anemia, a condition which the blood is incapable regenerating red corpuscles. cure has been found, thus for the affliction.

e hospital withheld the name e boy lest it hamper his aclife. He is a nine-and-a-half- old red-head, who stands at head of his school class and to roughhouse with the kids. normal in every respect, but disease evidences itself when child's hemoglobin percentage from eighty to forty and he nes pale. When this happens, brought to the hospital, givtransfusion of about a pint lood, and in a short time is ors once more.

e boy, who said he wanted to "tail gunner in a Flying Fort- and make guns after this for the next one, has paid visits to Mt. Sinai hospital and the rest of the 200 are scattered through various hospitals in Brooklyn.

Under his arm when he reported for his last transfusion were a sheaf of comic magazines, which he brought to the children's pavilion. The nurses there said he would go home with a bundle of new magazines, having become proficient in his many visits, in the art of swapping.

Since his case symbolized the institution's service to the community, the child was met by two doctors who are studying his case. They are Dr. Nathan Rosenthal, chief of the hematology department of the hospital, and Dr. Peter Vogel, his assistant. Dr. Charles Wood, of the Babies' hospital of Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, is also working with the two doctors.

A transfusion, to this child, holds about as much terror as a visit to the barber, and his amazing resistance is remarked upon. A three-year-old sister is in perfect health, his mother said.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 52: CHECKING DELINQUENTS

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has at its command many sources for checking up delinquent taxpayers. One of these is the "information at source" provision of the Internal Revenue Code, under which persons, "in whatever capacity acting," are required to report on Form 1099, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C., payments of fixed or determinable income to another in the calendar year of 1942 of $500 or more. If the recipient is married, and is a citizen or resident of the United States, reports need not be made of salary or other compensation for personal services unless the payments aggregate $1,200 or more. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return of salary or other compensation for personal services.

Fixed or determinable income includes wages, salaries, royalties, premiums, rent, interest, etc. A separate return of information for each employee is required of employers. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment must be reported. Domestic and resident foreign corporations are required to make a separate report, Form 1099, of dividends or distributions for each individual, citizen, or resident of the United States, resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident, who was paid $100 or more during the calendar year 1942.

Ohio Muskrats Hides Go Into Pilots' Jackets

COLUMBUS (INS)— The Ohio trapping industry is doing its share to provide warm clothing for the army air forces, it was learned with disclosure by Don Waters, state conservation commissioner, that practically all muskrat fur trapped in the Buckeye state is going into war channels, principally into air force garments.

Ohio trappers will obtain an estimated 800,000 to 850,000 muskrat pelts during the 1942-43 season, Waters said. The pelts sell at prices ranging from $2 and more apiece.

The state game management section has estimated that more than 783,000 hides were trapped in the 1941-42 season and 832,000 the previous season.

The trapping season in Lake Erie counties is from Nov. 20 to March 15. Elsewhere it ended Jan. 15. Commercial trappers, located principally in Sandusky, Ottawa and Erie counties, may trap all year around their diked-in grounds. It is estimated that more than 500 acres of marshland in the Sandusky bay region have been converted into muskrat farms.

MISS RANDALL SPEAKS AT SOROSIS MEETING

Mansfield Senior High School Teacher From Dayton Presents Timely Subject Before Members of Beta Chapter, Mansfield Sorosis.

MEMBERS of the Beta chapter of Mansfield Sorosis had as their guest speaker, Miss Frances Randall of Dayton, a teacher at Mansfield Senior high school, when they met at the home of Mrs. Eugene Linham, 33 Glenwood boulevard, Wednesday night. Miss Randall, who was introduced by Mrs. Virt Simpson, had as her subject "Places and Peoples of the Pacific."

Miss Randall presented a broad and timely subject, and one which she treated in all of its phases. Her initial statement was that only an anthropologist understands the people of these places and others cannot be trusted too far for facts and information about them.

In her talk, Miss Randall presented geographical statistics about the Pacific, showing it to be nine thousand by ten thousand miles and from two and one-half to six miles deep. She took up the treatment of Japan, China and India and small Pacific islands.

In discussing the islands, Miss Randall told something of the characteristics of the people, and the physical, climatic and economic conditions of the islands. She told about the lives of the leaders of the various islands, their military systems and present situations regarding today's war.

Miss Randall stated that she believed the Pacific war would be a sea war fought from land bases; that we are becoming more conscious of the essential need of studying climatic conditions, and the charting of waters in order to make us more efficient in this war.

The hostess served dainty refreshments buffet style from the dining room. Mrs. Weldon Lash, who presided at the business meeting, poured. Coral and blue were carried out as the color scheme. A lovely arrangement of sweet peas, small iris and lighted silver candles formed the centerpiece of the table.

Guests present at the meeting included Mrs. Clayton Haller, Mrs. Von Davis, Mrs. O. G. Place and Miss Randall. The next meeting, scheduled for March 17, will be held at the home of Miss Dorothy Mosier, as Greenwood boulevard.

Soap Welcome To Hospital Patient

By the time a hospital patient has received her fifth bouquet in a single day, she is apt to welcome with particular warmth the friend who expresses her good wishes with something different. While flowers are always an appropriate choice, there is such a thing as having too many in a hospital room.

It takes a little imagination to choose something that will add to the pleasure and comfort of an invalid, but there are a number of gifts that the thoughtful visitor can take along. The highlight of any patient's day comes with the morning bath, and this can be made even more enjoyable if she has her own favorite soap, talcum, and toilet water. Nurses are always glad to use these for their patients.

Other acceptable gifts are dainty wash cloths and nightgowns. Both must be changed daily, so a good supply is needed. Women patients, especially look forward to the time when they can discard the unflattering but highly practical hospital gown which is usually provided during the first few days of illness. On the other hand, the gift nightgown or pajamas should not be too fragile nor too sketchy. They should be washed and ironed before being presented so that they can be put into immediate use.

Hair ribbons, bed jackets, dressing gowns, bedroom slippers, manicure equipment, as well as amusing books are practical suggestions for the patient who is well on the way to recovery. Food, including candy, is far down on the list, and should never be offered a patient until the nurse or doctor have been consulted. And thrice-blessed is the visitor who makes a cheery entrance, presents a thoughtful gift, makes her stay brief, and exits smiling.

Many of the attractive multi-colored sweaters now in vogue are made of the remnants of two or more old or outworn knitted garments. Before the cast-offs are taken apart, they should be washed in soap and water, and the wool will be easier and pleasanter to handle.

JARED MANSFIELD CHAPTER.

The Jared Mansfield Chapter, D. A. R. will have a birthday dinner at 6 p. m. Friday in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church at the corner of Bowman and West Third streets. Mrs. R. W. Jones will be chairman and hostess.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"THAT IS what I told her," I said, wondering what change of plan was coming now, for I knew my father did not ask the question idly.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I shall need both you and Katherine here, or elsewhere."

"What time will the Veritzen supper party begin?" he asked next.

"About midnight, I imagine."

"How long do you need to get ready for it?"

"Perhaps a half hour. Not more, possibly less."

"H'm," he meditated. "About half after eleven you'll want to begin. Mr. Halloran, will you have Georges ready for a public appearance by that time?"

"Absolutely," Halloran affirmed.

"That will fit in all right, then," he said. "Georges can come in here, Mr. Halloran can go home, so you can dress in your bedroom and not have to take your things over to Mary's apartment. Now if you'll go back and tell Mary that, everything will be arranged."

"I'll go at once," I said, busy with conjectures as to what my father wanted of me.

I laid those conjectures aside when Mary had admitted me, for I saw at once that something had happened.

"I though Aunt Katherine was coming over with you," Mary said quickly.

When I explained my father's new arrangement, Noel struck in with a masterful air which he seldom uses.

"I'm going to put this up to Aunt Madge, Mary," he said.

For Mary palpably was providing a drab setting for "turning off her charm" as I had advised and of which Noel knew nothing. But he could see that the gown she had fished out from the limbo of forgotten things was unbecoming on Mary, and distinctly not in the mode of the moment. Then I suddenly remembered when Mary had brought it home over a year ago.

"Why I ever bought this thing!" she had exclaimed. "I guess it must have been because I felt sorry for the saleswoman. Did you ever see anything so small townish?"

But I do not think she had ever worn it, and guessed that she intended giving it to some charity.

"It's that gown, Aunt Madge," he said. "Where Mary got it I don't know. She's always exquisitely dressed, and then tonight, of all nights, she gets into a rag like that!"

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Mach 5

Exceptional enterprise and initiative, together with firmness, decisive action and persistency will be required to push affairs to a lucrative and productive status on this day, according to certain adverse aspects. It may seem difficult to gain any headway against frustrations and strange impediments without unusual pressure.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have to exert very unusual energies, stamina, firmness and aggressiveness in order to avoid strange situations as well as tenacious obstacles and crushing defeats. Physical depression or erratic mental or emotional tendencies may aggravate difficulties.

A child born on this day may have enterprise and talents but these may be jeopardized by erratic, impulsive or irregular traits or physical repressions.

Make Orders Clear for Children

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D

Some tragic experiences to children result from having misunderstood a command or request, or even from arriving at a wrong decision they supposed the parents would approve.

I must have been about 9 years old when a very unhappy experience came to me. Once I heard my father say concerning an old handleless hoe, "Some day we will put a handle in this hoe." Soon thereafter, while my father was away for the day, I set out to put a handle in the hoe. Always awkward with tools I did a miserable job of it. Yet I felt I was doing something very worthy.

In the old springhouse I found a shovel handle my father had put there. I took this handle, haggled it off with an axe and fitted the hoe on to it with some pieces of old leather.

When my father returned I could hardly wait to tell him what I had done, hoping that he would be pleased. Instead, he scolded me for using the shovel handle. As he saw it, my judgment had been very bad; yet I am sure he failed to see how I had looked at the matter.

Nevertheless, I should add that my father had not meant to hurt me; he just did as all the rest of us parents do when off guard.

I once heard my only living aunt, now 87, tell the following about a 14-year-old boy who lived at her home: As she was leaving for town one day she said to him: "Vernon, I wish you would chop down those old peach trees back of the barn." She supposed, of course, that he knew she meant only the dead ones.

On her return she found he had cut down every peach tree in the orchard including about 25 hardy trees which had been bearing choice peaches.

Naturally my aunt was very angry and distressed. Often I have heard her say in talking about the matter, I just can't see why the boy didn't have better sense." Yet he didn't, and hundreds of other boys in the same situation would not have had.

My readers can match these samples with others of their experience with children or adults. They often occur. Parents should therefore always make every request or command very plain. They should speak slowly and calmly and be sure the child understands.

Q. My 2½-year-old child has turned to biting other children, mostly children of his own age.

A. Let everything else go, if necessary. Be always with that child when he is with other children till the biting habit is cured. Always when he bites some one, instantly spank him. Be sure it is instant and that there can be no exceptions to the rule of pain to him following his biting.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

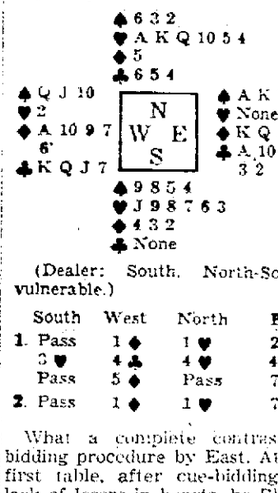
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T TELL TOO MUCH

There is such a thing as telling your partner too much, as you bid blithely along toward a nice slam contract. It can sometimes turn out that some of the things you tell him—which the opponents hear, too—can be more valuable to them than to him. Your bidding may disclose to them the defense which will defeat your side, whereas simpler calling, not quite as informative to your partner, may keep them in the dark.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	1 ♠	1 ♥	2 ♥
3 ♥	4 ♣	4 ♥	4 NT
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	7 ♠
2. Pass	1 ♠	1 ♥	7 ♦

What a complete contrast in bidding procedure by East. At the first table, after cue-bidding his lack of losers in hearts, he Blackwooded to find how many aces his partner had in the other three suits, being interested naturally in only his diamond A. When West showed it conventionally, he was ready for a very confidently bid grand slam in his partner's diamonds.

All of which sounded very nice as far as it went. But it also was heard by North, who decided that the natural lead of a heart would be hopeless. So he tried a club, and down went the declarer on a first-round ruff.

Perhaps North at the other table also should have led a club or a spade. How in the world could East bid 7-Diamonds if he had any Hearts at all? Perhaps North could have asked himself that question. But apparently he did not, for he led his heart K, and the grand slam was made. But isn't an opponent more likely to be steered away from leading his own suit if it has been one-bid by the opposition? Maybe the safest answer is that it all depends on your size-up of the particular opponents.

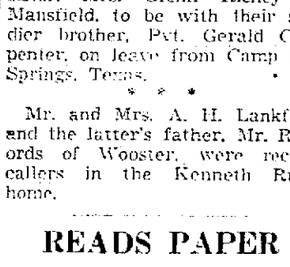
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.

If the opponents let South play this deal at 5-Clubs doubled, and start the defense with two diamond leads, how should he play for his contract?

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—All United Nations are to be invited to a meeting to be held in the United States before long to consider post-war arrangements.

What we hope for from this meeting is not a complete blueprint of the future, but the creation of some continuing machinery of the United Nations so that requirements of the future might be studied. We don't need plans for dealing with the future nearly as much as we need an organization of competent people who are ready to go to work. Without such an organization even the best drawn plans will be merely filed away for reference.

Clapper

A sound and practical analysis of what can and should be done has just been completed by the commission to study the organization of peace. This is a group of public-spirited Americans, many of them with years of technical experience in international affairs. The chairman is Dr. James T. Shotwell, one of the world's foremost authorities in the problems of collective security. This group is unofficial but its report undoubtedly will be thoughtfully considered in official quarters. I know no better guide for the thinking of the layman.

The most important recommendation in this report is that the United Nations organize themselves into a continuing conference as soon as possible.

This conference would have nothing to do with the military conduct of the war. On that, the commission's report makes a wise distinction. Responsibility for conducting the war must rest with the few large nations that are fighting it, and which alone have the military resources for waging it. They must exercise full responsibility in military affairs. Furthermore the need of secrecy, the necessity of many immediate decisions and the technical knowledge required all would make it impossible for a conference of the United Nations to deal with military conduct of the war even if there were no other reasons preventing it.

But in post-war preparations, and in the rehabilitation work that must follow behind the advancing Allied armies, the United Nations as a body can and should be assuming responsibilities.

The war is not likely to end in all places at once. We shall have war going on in some places and reconstruction in others. Armies should not have to divert their effort to do wet-nursing in the liberated territory. A United Nations conference should be assuming that duty. Lack of preparation for it in North Africa has contributed to much disagreement and friction. With invasion of the continent the need for such assistance behind the lines will expand rapidly.

A conference of the United Nations, organized into a standing body, would serve as the best kind of assurance toward the future. It need be only a temporary provisional body, concerned with rehabilitation and transition work. This is the chance to demonstrate what could be done. If, as the shotwell commission's report says, the United Nations acquire a reputation for honest and efficient administration in the interests of the community of nations, if they develop trust and respect, if they establish organs which prove of value to the community, then, it may be hoped that peoples and states will want to carry on such a system permanently after the war.

I think we have here the practical route to accomplishment, not in an overreaching blueprint, nor on the other hand in a halting island-by-island plan that might never arrive anywhere in time but would only provide too little, too late.

There is no time to delay. Nations already are making their plans as they must. Small nations are setting up boundary claims in shrill voices already and they are trying to play one power against another. If there is to be no United Nations then to achieve security deals must be made and allies sought by any means that will work.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Any further remarks about the need of a second front on the European continent and of more weapons, explosives and food for Russia and China should be addressed not to the American people, who have nothing to say in such matters, but to the White House, Washington. Mr. Josef Stalin's speaking is tough, practical and heartening because he is, in effect always threatening to take Adolf Hitler into a locked room, in person, when he catches up with him, and pull him apart by hand and when this war is done, if Hitler hasn't cut his own throat or hopped off his mountain, the little tough guy probably will arrange some personal and dramatic humiliation for him. His talks are good for us. He makes good his threats and he doesn't talk nonsense.

Pegler

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek makes a good speech, is welcome and very popular here and, in a manner of speaking, she can help herself to whatever we have that her people need to fight the Japanese.

But both of these rulers—I think it is correct to speak of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek as a ruler—I mainly know that the American people have given President Roosevelt full power to allocate all equipment and food as he thinks best. Stalin knows further that the American citizen has no more power than one of his own subjects to interfere with the general staff. Our people don't know how much stuff we have sent to Russia or anywhere else and therefore are in no position to judge whether it has been too little or could have been more.

Last summer, when the Communists here and in London, were hollering for a second front and Charlie Chaplin and Orson Welles, those night-club Commandos of the Hollywood front, were declaiming that American men walk up some continental beach through machine-gun fire, none of the people at home and few of our soldiers had the faintest suspicion that the expedition to North Africa was being organized.

If it is tools and (or) food that Stalin and Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek want, the person to see is Harry Hopkins, also residing at the White House. He has it all under his hand, having been deputized by President Roosevelt to handle all such matters. He has never been stingy with the American people's possessions and money and if he has on hand enough of what the Russians and Chinese need, after our own fighters have been taken care of, he can be relied on to send it along.

Mme. Chiang has been very nice about it all but there have been times when Stalin has seemed a little impatient, not to say contemptuous and that doesn't do anyone any good. It certainly gives the Nazis reason to hope that he might do something independent whenever he thinks he has had enough fighting or has won back enough country. The same idea naturally flits through the thoughts of the Americans who are doing all they can and trying harder all the time. How would he like it if President Roosevelt should get up some Sunday night and point out to the American people that, after all, Stalin isn't doing, never has done, and hasn't promised to do anything at all for the United States but has fought only for Russia and didn't fight a lick until Hitler attacked him.

He would burn up and any such candor from the American president in response to suggestions that we have been dogging it might break up the United Nations. But none of our big men ever speaks that way.

President Roosevelt will never say it, but Mr. Stalin certainly knows that one important reason why we haven't been able to do more for him and a reason, therefore why some incalculable number of Russian soldiers and civilians have been slaughtered is that his Communists in the United States did their worst to prevent the production of machine tools, weapons and everything else that he has needed, during a period of almost two years.

If he wants to call them home and execute them for this that will be all right with the people of the United States because they are a traitorous, treacherous, evil lot and they belong to him. In the matter of war goods, all complaints as to quantity, quality or tardy delivery should be addressed to the management, and not to the help.

BROWN THROWS OUT 'BIG STICK' ENFORCEMENTS

Seeks Public Co-operation In Establishing Broad New Food Controls.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Embarked upon a new course of winning public support without police harassment, the office of price administration today moved rapidly toward institution of broad new food controls and possible revamping of its own internal organization.

Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, brought into OPA to soothe ruffled feelings left by rough, out-spoken Leon Henderson, made it clear that his agency is out to obtain goodwill and voluntary compliance with drastic wartime price and rationing measures.

"Positive enforcement measures must be used with criminals but they are not necessary with the general public," he stated in a thorough-going survey of OPA's program. "Instead I expect to secure voluntary compliance by the public through understanding of the new food regulation."

The ex-Michigan senator coupled his announcement that "the time has now come to stop all unnecessary inconvenience of the public" with the following report on OPA activities:

1. East coast motorists have been placed on an "honor system" of avoiding non-essential driving with police and OPA agents instructed to cease stopping cars, holding hearings and tearing out gasoline ration coupons. A "fair probability" exists for complete lifting of the pleasure driving ban by March 22.

2. Former Senator Clyde Herring (D.), Iowa, now senior assistant to Brown, will survey the OPA setup with a view to improving the organization and eliminating congressional criticism of the agency.

3. OPA food experts are hard at work attempting to complete point values for meat, cheese, butter and fats and oils which probably will be rationed by April 1 with the red stamps in war ration book 2.

4. OPA is determined to hold the price line "as closely as the statute will permit us to do so," having rejected increases in such important commodities as "citrus fruits," early potatoes and several other items." Newsprint was the major exception, going up $4 a ton.

5. A program is under way to curb the meat black market, with governors and mayors of principal cities "cooperating all along the line."

SALES DECLINE

Auto License Applications Show 35 Per Cent Drop.

Automobile license sticker sales at the Richland Auto club have shown a marked decline from 1942 sales, Deputy Registrar Jack Berger announced this morning.

Berger said that in the first three days of the present renewal period, the local office had issued 613 tags, compared with 980 for a similar period last year. This is a decrease of 35 per cent.

Berger said the decrease was probably due to the large number of Richland county men now in the armed forces, and the decision of many motorists to store their cars for the duration.

30 COUNTIES DARK TONIGHT

Ohio Will Stage Greatest Test Blackout For 3,500,000 Persons.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio's defense against possible night air raids will get its broadest test to date in the blackout of 30 northern Ohio counties tonight.

Approximately 150,000 defense corps workers were ready to direct the test intended to conceal the area with a population of some 3,500,000 behind a curtain of darkness.

The test is set for about 8:30 p. m. central war time.

Only industrial plants will be exempted from participation, but Cuyahoga county factories will blackout.

Defense officials will use the test as a proving ground for plans to be executed in district and statewide trials later.

First warning will be given key members of local defense corps at 8:05 p. m. A two-minute blast on air raid sirens or whistles 20 minutes later will warn the public to turn off lights.

Traffic must halt at 8:40 with a series of short blasts which signals that planes are overhead. A steady blast 10 minutes later will denote that planes have left but might return, therefore lights must remain out and traffic must move slowly.

Relighting of street lights at 8:55 will mark the all-clear.

Counties blacking out are: Ashtabula, Athens, Belmont, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Defiance, Erie, Gallia, Geauga, Mahoning, Meigs, Henry, Huron, Jackson, Jefferson, Lake, Lawrence, Lorain, Lucas, Medina, Monroe, Ottawa, Portage, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Summit, Trumbull, Washington and Wood.

WAR OUTPUT HALTED

DAYTON—(INS)—A work stoppage halted war production at the plant of the Airtemp division of Chrysler corporation. President W. D. Russell said it was caused by slowness of the war labor board in passing upon a proposed wage revision.

Following immediately upon the heels of criticism expressed by Police Chief Meade K. Bates of householders who leave doors unlocked at nights, James Black, 415 North Main street, reported the theft of a billfold containing $2.50. He told police the prowler gained entrance through an unlocked door. Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp investigated. Bates yesterday warned against the practice of leaving doors and windows unlocked or leaving valuables within sight of window peepers. Black said his purse was left on top of a radio cabinet.

Richland county hunters and fishermen have some choice hunting and fishing in prospect on Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm. Bromfield extended the invitation last night at a meeting of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association in the North Lake park pavilion, but added that it probably would be "a couple of years before I can invite you boys down." He said conservation practices had paid big dividends on his 900-acre farm and that the rabbits were so thick they have become a nuisance. Big bass have taken over the streams and devour the trout he places in the waters. The raccoon have multiplied rapidly, too, he added.

The City building observed its 18th anniversary today, it was recalled by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley who is the only elective city official still on the job who was there when the building was opened. Kelley, who is serving his 20th year as auditor, said there are a few appointive workers still at their posts who were there when the building was opened to the public. Carl H. Stander was mayor when the new building was finished, the auditor recalled.

VOLUNTEER AIR CADETS SOUGHT

Army Air Force Opens Ranks For Pre-Aviation College Training Courses.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The army air forces today permitted eligible draftees between 18 and 26, inclusive, to volunteer for induction in the new pre-aviation college cadet training program which begins tomorrow.

Under the new plan, eligible selective service enlistees may be accepted for instruction upon passing an aviation cadet physical examination and recommendation for flight training by an aviation cadet training board.

Simultaneously, the army air forces made public a list of 119 U. S. colleges and universities which have been approved by the war department as pre-aviation training centers. Instruction will start in some institutions tomorrow, but others will await final negotiation of contracts with the army.

With the new aviation cadet (air crew) training program extended to 15½ months, candidates will now attend a basic training center for two months, study at a college or university for five months, and spend eight and one half months in advanced training.

A certain percentage of college graduates or men with adequate college credits attending basic training centers will be assigned to pre flight courses as aviation cadets without completing pre-aviation cadet college training.

Following college training, successful cadet candidates will be classified for instruction as bombardiers, navigators and pilots. For eight and one half months, they will be given advanced academic subjects and advanced flying training.

LEWIS GIVEN 'NO PAY RAISE' SIGN BY WLB

Warning Implied on Ruling Against General Boost In Plane Industry.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The war labor board today served mute notice on John L. Lewis that it would not grant any general wage increases in industry on the virtual eve of negotiations between Lewis's United Mine Workers union and the nation's soft-coal industry.

The implied warning was given as the board handed down its decision in a case in which 250,000 aircraft workers on the west coast were demanding an industry-wide pay increase in airplane plants.

Many concessions and compromises were made by the aircraft workers but the board refused union demands for general pay raises.

The WLB's action presaged a "knock down, drag out" fight between the WLB and Lewis over demands for higher wages for the soft coal and also the anthracite miners. Speaking to more than 300 delegates to the tri-district convention of miners assembled in Scranton, Pa., to frame demands for pay boosts for 90,000 hard coal miners, Lewis pledged last night that "in this year of Our Lord you men will have a wage increase."

In the aircraft case the WLB gave a pay increase of 4.3 cents an hour to 30,000 workers at the big, Boeing bomber plants near Seattle, Wash., and, it granted a pay increase of 7.5 cents an hour to half of the 220,000 workers in plants of eight aircraft companies in southern California.

The grants were below demands made by the AFL's Machinist's union, the CIO's Auto Workers and the Independent Welder's union. However, the board made retroactive wage adjustment bonuses ranging from $64.75 to $78.75 to the southern California and Washington aircraft employes.

This was regarded in informed labor circles as a "sop" to the union.

The board also recently refused a general wage increase for 180,000 workers in the big four meat packing companies in the Chicago area and it was feared that any general increase for the aircraft workers would lead to reopening of that case.

WIDOW, 84, DIES

Mrs. Alice Haines Succumbs After Long Illness.

Mrs. Alice S. Haines, 84, widow of Winifeld S. Haines, died Wednesday in her home at 328 South Main street, after a lingering illness.

NEW YORK CITY PREPARED FOR AXIS RAIDERS

Once 'Gay White Day' Dimmed Out; Powerful Searchlights Swing Across Sky.

By JOHN NAGEL
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Under a dimmed-out sky, New York today is prepared for war.

Broadway, the city's once "Gay White Way," now is but a faint shadow of its pre-war self. Splendor and brilliance have been sacrificed for the lives of seamen and the cargoes of ships destined for world-wide battlefronts.

Outwardly placid, New York nevertheless is ready for come what may. The majority of homes have their own equipment to fight blazes which might be caused by an enemy raider dropping incendiary bombs. In addition there are thousands of fully trained air raid wardens and auxiliary firemen ready to go into action at a moment's notice.

At night giant searchlights range the sky identifying each passing plane in criss-crossing rays of light. The searchlights are turned off only after the identity of the plane has been definitely established.

The city's air raid sirens are manned 24 hours a day by auxiliary firemen. Each tour of duty lasts four hours. These men have received extensive training and are well versed in the handling of fire equipment.

There also are numerous air raid warden posts scattered throughout the city. The wardens have become a familiar sight with their white armbands and white helmets strung over their shoulders as they patrol the streets at all hours.

A surprise practice alert recently sounded during the early afternoon hours. Within a comparatively short time they appeared and had the situation well in hand. All traffic was stopped and civilians herded into doorways. The alert was pronounced a definite success.

All lights visible from out of doors which cannot be extinguished, completely obscured or reduced within five minutes of a blackout alarm must be permanently extinguished.

All lights on trains streetcars, buses, ferries and subways running above ground must be so shielded that the light escaping shall not exceed two-foot candles at any point three feet from the outside.

Lights in shop, office and home windows must also be kept down to the two-foot candles rule.

Vehicular headlights must have the upper part of the lens obscured by some opaque material, and high beam headlights are not permitted. When driving within sight of the sea no more than two driving lamps, each of 250 candle-power or less, may be used.

Violations of these regulations may be punished by fines up to $5,000, imprisonment for one year, or both. The dimout time is from one-half hour before sunrise between Oct. 1 and April 30, and from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise between May 1 and Sept. 30.

Steps also are being taken to protect civilians against possible enemy gas attacks. Several thousand gas masks recently were distributed among the protective forces of the city. They represented the first few truckloads of a total shipment of 168,000 gas masks alloted to New York by the Office of Civilian Defense. The masks differ slightly from the regular army issue.

When, and if, Axis raiders come, they will find the city prepared to give them a hot reception.

THEATERS

Continues at Ohio.

James Hilton's "Random Harvest," starring Ronald Colman and Greer Garson, continues today at the Ohio. Colman, an amnesia victim from shock in world war battles, walks away from a mental hospital. He meets Greer and the two fall in love and marry. They live happily together for three years. Colman is struck by a car, and when he regains consciousness his life with Greer is completely blacked out. This sets the stage for a dramatic and heart touching climax.

Bambi.

Walt Disney's technicolor production, "Bambi," is the feature attraction at the Madison. It is the story of high romance and thrilling adventure told through the medium of animals living in a forest. Here's what a few of the top movie critics say about the film: Kate Cameron, New York Daily News—"We feel like shouting its praises from the top of Radio City." Rose Pelswick, New York Journal-American—"Utterly enchanting." Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune—"Bambi belongs on the top shelf of all notable motion pictures." Alton Cook, New York World-Telegram—"Bambi steps way ahead of all its predecessors on the Walt Disney list." Tim Holt, star of "Hitler's Children," plays top role in the second hit, "Pirates of the Prairie."

Gentleman Jim.

The days of the bustle, the stiff collar, striped silk shirts, bowler hats—and James J. Corbett, first heavyweight champion of the world under the Marquis of Queensberry rules are recreated in "Gentleman Jim," top hit at the Ritz starting today. Errol Flynn, Alexis Smith, and Jack Carson play the leading roles—Flynn as the great Corbett. "The Blocked Trail," is the second hit.

Battle Cry of China.

The thrilling "Kukan—The Battle Cry of China" opens today at the Park. Buster Crabbe stars in the other attraction, "The Mysterious Rider."

Sets Dates for Seeding Hay on Farms This Year

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Good clover and alfalfa seedings, necessary to protect future soil productivity, can best be obtained by sowing after March 1, Dr. C. J. Willard of Ohio State university advises Ohio farmers.

Farmers in the southern part of the state can safely sow these legumes any time during March, while farmers in northern Ohio will have their greatest success with seed sown during the latter part of the month and up to April 7. The best stands of legumes in the Columbus area have been obtained from seed sown between March 14 and April 1, Dr. Willard says.

Pasturing or clipping wheat in which the seed is sown increases the farmer's chances of getting a good seeding, and more than offsets any loss of wheat, Dr. Willard asserts, adding that since seed is scarce and high priced, "every effort should be made to give the seed sown a fair chance to produce good meadows and pastures."

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ASHINGTON—All United Nations are to be invited to a meeting to be held in the United tes before long to consider post-war arrange- its.

What we hope for from this meeting is not a iplete blueprint of the future, but the creation some continuing machinery of the United Na- is so that requirements of the future might be studied. We don't need plans for dealing with the future nearly as much as we need an organization of competent people who are ready to go to work. Without such an organization even the best drawn plans will be merely filed away for reference.

Clapper

A sound and practical analysis of what can and should be done has just been completed by the commission to study the organization of peace. This is a group public-spirited Americans, many of them with rs of technical experience in international af- s. The chairman is Dr. James T. Shotwell, of the world's foremost authorities in the blems of collective security. This group is fficial but its report undoubtedly will be ghtfully considered in official quarters. I know o better guide for the thinking of the layman.

The most important recommendation in this ort is that the United Nations organize themes into a continuing conference as soon as ible.

This conference would have nothing to do with military conduct of the war. On that, the mission's report makes a wise distinction. ponsibility for conducting the war must rest the few large nations that are fighting it, which alone have the military resources for ing it. They must exercise full responsibility nilitary affairs. Furthermore the need of sey, the necessity of many immediate decisions the technical knowledge required all would make it impossible for a conference of the United Nations to deal with military conduct of the war even if there were no other reasons preventing it.

But in post-war preparations, and in the rehabilitation work that must follow behind the advancing Allied armies, the United Nations as a body can and should be assuming responsibilities.

The war is not likely to end in all places at once. We shall have war going on in some places and reconstruction in others. Armies should not have to divert their effort to do wet-nursing in the liberated territory. A United Nations conference should be assuming that duty. Lack of preparation for it in North Africa has contributed to much disagreement and friction. With invasion of the continent the need for such assistance behind the lines will expand rapidly.

A conference of the United Nations, organized into a standing body, would serve as the best kind of assurance toward the future. It need be only a temporary provisional body, concerned with rehabilitation and transition work. This is the chance to demonstrate what could be done. If, as the shotwell commission's report says, the United Nations acquire a reputation for honest and efficient administration in the interests of the community of nations, if they develop trust and respect, if they establish organs which prove of value to the community, then, it may be hoped that peoples and states will want to carry on such a system permanently after the war.

I think we have here the practical route to accomplishment, not in an overreaching blueprint, nor on the other hand in a halting island-by-island plan that might never arrive anywhere in time but would only provide too little, too late.

There is no time to delay. Nations already are making their plans as they must. Small nations are setting up boundary claims in shrill voices already and they are trying to play one power against another. If there is to be no United Nations then to achieve security deals must be made and allies sought by any means that will work.

BROWN THROWS OUT 'BIG STICK' ENFORCEMENTS

Seeks Public Co-operation In Establishing Broad New Food Controls.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Embarked upon a new course of winning public support without police harassment, the office of price administration today moved rapidly toward institution of broad new food controls and possible revamping of its own internal organization.

Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, brought into OPA to soothe ruffled feelings left by rough, out-spoken Leon Henderson, made it clear that his agency is out to obtain goodwill and voluntary compliance with drastic wartime price and rationing measures.

"Positive enforcement measures must be used with criminals but they are not necessary with the general public," he stated in a thorough-going survey of OPA's program. "Instead I expect to secure voluntary compliance by the public through understanding of the new food regulation."

The ex-Michigan senator coupled his announcement that "the time has now come to stop all unnecessary inconvenience of the public" with the following report on OPA activities:

1. East coast motorists have been placed on an "honor system" of avoiding non-essential driving with police and OPA agents instructed to cease stopping cars, holding hearings and tearing out gasoline ration coupons. A "fair probability" exists for complete lifting of the pleasure driving ban by March 22.

2. Former Senator Clyde Herring (D.), Iowa, now senior assistant to Brown, will survey the OPA setup with a view to improving the organization and eliminating congressional criticism of the agency.

3. OPA food experts are hard at work attempting to complete point values for meat, cheese, butter and fats and oils which probably will be rationed by April 1 with the red stamps in war ration book 2.

4. OPA is determined to hold the price line "as closely as the statute will permit us to do so," having rejected increases in such important commodities as "citrus fruits," early potatoes and several other items." Newsprint was the major exception, going up $4 a ton.

5. A program is under way to curb the meat black market, with governors and mayors of principal cities "cooperating all along the line."

LEWIS GIVEN 'NO PAY RAISE' SIGN BY WLB

Warning Implied on Ruling Against General Boost In Plane Industry.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The war labor board today served mute notice on John L. Lewis that it would not grant any general wage increases in industry on the virtual eve of negotiations between Lewis's United Mine Workers union and the nation's soft-coal industry.

The implied warning was given as the board handed down its decision in a case in which 250,000 aircraft workers on the west coast were demanding an industry-wide pay increase in airplane plants.

Many concessions and compromises were made by the aircraft workers but the board refused union demands for general pay raises.

The WLB's action presaged a "knock down, drag out" fight between the WLB and Lewis over demands for higher wages for the soft coal and also the anthracite miners. Speaking to more than 300 delegates to the tri-district convention of miners assembled in Scranton, Pa., to frame demands for pay boosts for 90,000 hard coal miners, Lewis pledged last night that "in this year of Our Lord you men will have a wage increase."

In the aircraft case the WLB gave a pay increase of 4.3 cents an hour to 30,000 workers at the big, Boeing bomber plants near Seattle, Wash., and, it granted a pay increase of 7.5 cents an hour to half of the 220,000 workers in plants of eight aircraft companies in southern California.

The grants were below demands made by the AFL's Machinist's union, the CIO's Auto Workers and the Independent Welder's union. However, the board made retroactive wage adjustment bonuses ranging from $64.75 to $78.75 to the southern California and Washington aircraft employes.

This was regarded in informed labor circles as a "sop" to the union.

The board also recently refused a general wage increase for 180,000 workers in the big four meat packing companies in the Chicago area and it was feared that any general increase for the aircraft workers would lead to reopening of that case.

'AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

:W YORK—Any further remarks about the need of a second front on the European con- nt and of more weapons, explosives and food Russia and China should be addressed not to American people, who have nothing to say in matters, but to the White House, Washington. osef Stalin's speaking is tough, practical and tening because he is, in effect always threatening to take Adolf Hitler into a locked room, in person, when he catches up with him, and pull him apart by hand and when this war is done, if Hitler hasn't cut his own throat or hopped off his mountain, the little tough guy probably will arrange some personal and dramatic humiliation for him. His talks are good for us. He makes good his threats and he doesn't talk nonsense.

Pegler

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek makes od speech, is welcome and very popular here in a maner of speaking, she can help herself hatever we have that her people need to fight Japanese.

But both of these rulers—I think it is correct peak of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek as a ruler—ainly know that the American people have President Roosevelt full power to allocate equipment and food as he thinks best. Stalin rs further that the American citizen has no power than one of his own subjects to interwith the general staff. Our people don't know much stuff we have sent to Russia or anyre else and therefore are in no position to e whether it has been too little or could have more.

ast summer, when the Communists here and ondon, were hollering for a second front and lie Chaplin and Orson Welles, those night- Commandos of the Hollywood front, were deding that American men walk up some conital beach through machine-gun fire, none of people at home and few of our soldiers had faintest suspicion that the expedition to North ca was being organized.

If it is tools and (or) food that Stalin and Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek want, the person to see is Harry Hopkins, also residing at the White House. He has it all under his hand, having been deputized by President Roosevelt to handle all such matters. He has never been stingy with the American people's possessions and money and if he has on hand enough of what the Russians and Chinese need, after our own fighters have been taken care of, he can be relied on to send it along.

Mme. Chiang has been very nice about it all but there have been times when Stalin has seemed a little impatient, not to say contemptuous and that doesn't do anyone any good. It certainly gives the Nazis reason to hope that he might do something independent whenever he thinks he has had enough fighting or has won back enough country. The same idea naturally flits through the thoughts of the Americans who are doing all they can and trying harder all the time. How would he like it if President Roosevelt should get up some Sunday night and point out to the American people that, after all, Stalin isn't doing never has done, and hasn't promised to do anything at all for the United States but has fought only for Russia and didn't fight a lick until Hitler attacked him.

He would burn up and any such candor from the American president in response to suggestions that we have been dogging it might break up the United Nations. But none of our big men ever speaks that way.

President Roosevelt will never say it, but Mr. Stalin certainly knows that one important reason why we haven't been able to do more for him and a reason, therefore, why some incalculable number of Russian soldiers and civilians have been slaughtered is that his Communists in the United States did their worst to prevent the production of machine tools, weapons and everything else that he has needed, during a period of almost two years.

If he wants to call them home and execute them for this that will be all right with the people of the United States because they are a traitorous, treacherous, evil lot and they belong to him. In the matter of war goods, all complaints as to quantity, quality or tardy delivery should be addressed to the management, and not to the help.

SALES DECLINE

Auto License Applications Show 35 Per Cent Drop.

Automobile license sticker sales at the Richland Auto club have shown a marked decline from 1942 sales, Deputy Registrar Jack Berger announced this morning.

Berger said that in the first three days of the present renewal period, the local office had issued 613 tags, compared with 980 for a similar period last year. This is a decrease of 35 per cent.

Berger said the decrease was probably due to the large number of Richland county men now in the armed forces, and the decision of many motorists to store their cars for the duration.

EX-MANSFIELD RESIDENT DIES

Raymond J. Sullivan, 39, former resident of Mansfield, died of a lingering illness at his home in Baltimore, Md., yesterday.

30 COUNTIES DARK TONIGHT

Ohio Will Stage Greatest Test Blackout For 3,500,000 Persons.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio's defense against possible night air raids will get its broadest test to date in the blackout of 30 northern Ohio counties tonight.

Approximately 150,000 defense corps workers were ready to direct the test intended to conceal the area with a population of some 3,500,000 behind a curtain of darkness.

The test is set for about 8:30 p. m. central war time.

Only industrial plants will be exempted from participation, but Cuyahoga county factories will blackout.

Defense officials will use the test as a proving ground for plans to be executed in district and statewide trials later.

First warning will be given key members of local defense corps at 8:05 p. m. A two-minute blast on air raid sirens or whistles 20 minutes later will warn the public to turn off lights.

Traffic must halt at 8:40 with a series of short blasts which signals that planes are overhead. A steady blast 10 minutes later will denote that planes have left but might return, therefore lights must remain out and traffic must move slowly.

Relighting of street lights at 8:55 will mark the all-clear.

Counties blacking out are: Ashtabula, Athens, Belmont, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Defiance, Erie, Gallia, Geauga, Mahoning, Meigs, Henry, Huron, Jackson, Jefferson, Lake, Lawrence, Lorain, Lucas, Medina, Monroe, Ottawa, Portage, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Summit, Trumbull, Washington and Wood.

WAR OUTPUT HALTED

DAYTON—(INS)—A work stoppage halted war production at the plant of the Airtemp division of Chrysler corporation. President W. D. Russell said it was caused by slowness of the war labor board in passing upon a proposed wage revision.

Following immediately upon the heels of criticism expressed by Police Chief Meade K. Bates of householders who leave doors unlocked at nights, James Black, 415 North Main street, reported the theft of a billfold containing $2.50. He told police the prowler gained entrance through an unlocked door. Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp investigated. Bates yesterday warned against the practice of leaving doors and windows unlocked or leaving valuables within sight of window peepers. Black said his purse was left on top of a radio cabinet.

Richland county hunters and fishermen have some choice hunting and fishing in prospect on Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm. Bromfield extended the invitation last night at a meeting of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association in the North Lake park pavilion, but added that it probably would be "a couple of years before I can invite you boys down." He said conservation practices had paid big dividends on his 900-acre farm and that the rabbits were so thick they have become a nuisance. Big bass have taken over the streams and devour the trout he places in the waters. The raccoon have multiplied rapidly, too, he added.

The City building observed its 18th anniversary today, it was recalled by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley who is the only elective city official still on the job who was there when the building was opened. Kelley, who is serving his 20th year as auditor, said there are a few appointive workers still at their posts who were there when the building was opened to the public. Carl H. Stander was mayor when the new building was finished, the auditor recalled.

VOLUNTEER AIR CADETS SOUGHT

Army Air Force Opens Ranks For Pre-Aviation College Training Courses.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The army air forces today permitted eligible draftees between 18 and 26, inclusive, to volunteer for induction in the new pre-aviation college cadet training program which begins tomorrow.

Under the new plan, eligible selective service enlistees may be accepted for instruction upon passing an aviation cadet physical examination and recommendation for flight training by an aviation cadet training board.

Simultaneously, the army air forces made public a list of 119 U. S. colleges and universities which have been approved by the war department as pre-aviation training centers. Instruction will start in some institutions tomorrow, but others will await final negotiation of contracts with the army.

With the new aviation cadet (air crew) training program extended to 15½ months, candidates will now attend a basic training center for two months, study at a college or university for five months, and spend eight and one half months in advanced training.

A certain percentage of college graduates or men with adequate college credits attending basic training centers will be assigned to pre flight courses as aviation cadets without completing pre-aviation cadet college training.

Following college training successful cadet candidates will be classified for instruction as bombardiers, navigators and pilots. For eight and one half months, they will be given advanced academic subjects and advanced flying training.
